Blizzard Cripples East Coast, But Show Goes On

1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show In Review

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "For many years many of us will be talking about the 1996 Farm Show," state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius told the audience of the livestock sale Thursday in the Small Arena of the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Brosius was talking about the effects of two feet or more of snow that smothered central, southcentral and southeastern Pennsylvania Sunday into Monday in one of the heaviest winter storms on record.

Gov. Tom Ridge, who opened the Farm Show in ceremonies on Saturday and who returned Tuesday to tour and help present the supreme dairy cow honors (perhaps setting a recent history record for attendance by a state governor), declared a state of emergency Sunday evening that eventually stretched until 6 a.m. Tuesday.

No vehicles — except for those used for emergency or snow removal services — were permitted on state roads during the state of emergency.

Most of the areas affected were still not shoveled out by Tuesday, as two feet or more locked communities in a tight grip.

Airlines were shut down along the East Coast. And in Harrisburg, many were stranded at the airport.

While state crews worked to clear state roads across the affected counties, snow removal equipment of local municipalities was pressed

Wagner's Jersey Supreme Champion

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The stylish grandchampion of the Jersey breed walked into the blue-green winner's circle to become the supreme champion of the dairy show at the 1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show Wednesday afternoon. SV Toptin Lopy, VG-89 headed the three year-old class and went on to the top for Steve Wagner, Quarryville, Lancaster County.

For the first time anyone could remember, a Pennsylvania governor returned to the Farm Show later in the week after the opening ceremonies. Gov. Tom Ridge was on hand to make the presentation, along with Charles Brosius, Pennsylvania agriculture secretary, and Rhonda Kicklak, Pennsylvania Dairy Princess.

This was the first time at the Farm Show for Lopy, but she had placed well as a heifer at the Jersey All-American. Her 2y record reads, 17,600m 870m 658p. The winner's sire is Hoosier Valley Just Topin, and her dam is Beacon Leeann of SV.

Gov. Ridge officially opens the 1996 (80th) Farm Show. See story page A32.

LANCASTER COUNTY LIVESTOCK MARKET AUCTION

Because of the recent snowstorm, most Lancaster markets were cancelled. Instead, some of last week's market reports are provided.

Pennsylvania Auctioneers' Hold Convention

The Pennsylvania Auctioneers' Association held the annual convention this week at the Marriott Hotel in Harrisburg. They have 600 state members.

Alvin Miller, committee chairman, said the PAA convention hosts the bid-calling contest, the fun auction, and auction seminars. In addition, the Auctioneer Hall of Fame Award is presented. Reports on the convention will be published next week.

Because of recent inclement weather, several markets indicated reduced sales and several were unavailable.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JANUARY 10, 1996

Wheat bids finished narrowly mixed following corn and bean weakness but some support was noted due to export optimism about China. Corn and soybean bids lost a bit of yesterday's gains in reaction to revised forecasts in Argentina calling for rain over the next few days and fund selling on the board

Traders will have to wait until next Tuesday for USDA's Crop Production and Grain Stocks report due to blizzard conditions in Washington. Wheat mixed. Corn 3 to 6 cents lower. Sorghum 6 to 10 cents lower. Soybeans 2 to 6 cents lower. Indications that China had bought 750,000 tonnes of US wheat Tuesday and that Morocco was seeking a large quantity of optional origin wheat offered some strength to wheat bids. A fair amount of wheat was sold overnight to Korea which was supportive. However, spillover weakness from corn and bean pits, added some pressure to wheat bids. Profit taking pushed corn and soybean bids lower after Tuesday's sharp upturn due to forecasts for rainfall in Argentina this week after earlier expectations for warmer, drier conditions. Good export demand offered some support to corn and bean bids.

Delmarva Broiler

JANUARY 10, 1996

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was good. Offerings were irregularly available as a result of the recent adverse weather. 3 pound and lighter weight were tight; heavier sizes were fully adequate. Live supplies were moderate to heavy; weights were often heavier than desired. Processing schedules were irregular with most sellers looking to reduce backlogs caused by the storm. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent higher compared to last report on Friday at 59 to 70 cents. Trade sentiment was firm, but cautious. In the parts complex, demand was active on all items as buyers sought past due deliveries.

North Atlantic Shell Eggs

Atlanta, Ga.

PRICES TO RETAILERS WERE UNCHANGED TO HIGHER, AND PRICES PAID TO PRODUCERS WERE HIGHER IN NEW ENGLAND. THE MARKET TONE WAS FIRM. DEMAND REMAINED VERY GOOD INTO RETAIL CHANNELS, AND FILLING GRADED ORDERS WAS DIFFICULT DUE TO TIGHT SUPPLIES. PLANTS TRIED TO CATCH UP ON GRADING SCHEDULES, BUT UNGRADED EGG DELIVERIES FROM THE FARMS WERE ALSO SOMETIMES DELAYED. BREAKING STOCK SUPPLIES WERE ADEQUATE WITH OCCASIONAL SHORTAGES NOTED FROM DELAYED DELIVERIES, AND THE UNDERTONE WAS FIRM FOR BOTH SHELL EGGS AND EGG PRODUCTS.

Egg Market

JANUARY 10, 1996

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Northeast and Midwest, and unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to firm. Demand was mixed, generally moderate to good in all regions, and distribution in the Northeast remained difficult, but improved as road conditions improved. Supplies of the large sizes were generally adequate or available, and medium supplies continued tight to adequate. Graded eggs were tight in the Northeast, and ungraded eggs were processed as fast as possible. Breaking stock supplies were generally adequate to instances barely adequate for the irregular demand, and the undertone was steady to fully steady with prices higher in the Midwest. Spent hen offerings remained at least adequate for the unaggressive demand, and the trade sentiment was steady.

New York Egg Market

JANUARY 10, 1996

Prices were higher. The market tone continued at least steady. Demand was generally good in all channels, but ability to fill orders remained difficult due to hazardous road conditions. Supplies of ungraded eggs were generally adequate, but graded eggs were often short at the store level, and plants attempted to catch up for lost processing time. The New York state inventory was 19% greater than January 2, 1996, and the New Jersey inventory was 9% less than the same date.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
JANUARY 10, 1996

Compared to last test three weeks ago: Feeder cattle and calves 3.00-5.00 lower, yearling cattle at the full decline. Demand moderate. Calf and feeder flesh very attractive to buyers and generally medium to thin, few fleshy; weigh-ups average. Quality of supply plain to average but this easily offset by thinner flesh conditions. Very few cattle off wheat in the supply as grazing was extremely sparse this season. In normal grazing conditions January is the first of the three off wheat runs. Slaughter cows and bulls 1.00-2.00 higher with good demand and widespread buyer participation. Packers bought 80 percent of the 600 cows and bulls. Receipts this week 10,675; last week 440; last year 16,363. Supply consisted of 67 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 27 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. Feeder Steers: Medium and Large 1 300-350 lbs (317 lbs) 64.00-70.50 (68.55); 350-400 lbs (380 lbs) 62.00-67.00 (65.56); 400-500 lbs (450 lbs) 60.50-65.50, lot very thin 69.00 (65.38); 500-550 lbs (517 lbs) 59.50-64.50 (62.57); 550-600 lbs (579 lbs) 57.50-63.50 (60.81); 600-700 lb calves (650 lbs) 57.00-62.75 (59.80); 650-700 lb yearlings (677 lbs) 60.50-63.00 (61.96); 700-800 lbs (750 lbs) 60.00-64.50 (61.21); 800-900 lbs (850 lbs) 59.00-63.25 (60.91); 900-1000 lbs (950 lbs) 57.25-60.00 (57.34).

Golden Leaf	23%
Oldham	5%
Southboat	3%
Winstead	1%
Warehouse	19%

123,298 Lbs. Sold
$1.40/Lb. to $1.45/Lb.

RECEIVING DATES ARE:
1/15 7 to Sale; 1/16-7 to 4; 1/17-7 to Sale; 1./18 - 7 to 4; 1/19-7 to Sale

Please stay with the auction system. We are still working as hard as we can for you.

Remember, there is only 100% of the tobacco offered. What will the buyer do to get more tobacco?

1 - raise the price at auction, or
2 - buy on the farm

If the buyer buys on the farm he will tell the farmer that there's no commission to warehouse and that his price will be the same as at the auction. But, what will the on-farm buyer pay for low grade? If the buyer docks you on a 800 lb. skid - it could pay the commission for your whole crop selling at auction.

We like all buyers to buy at auction - we need your tobacco.

Please color grade
- Put bright tobacco in one grade
- Put tips in one grade
- Put ground leaves in one grade

Thank you farmers for your good workmanship in 1995 – one pretty crop!

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

JANUARY 8-14, 1996

PLOUGH MONDAY, JAN. 8.

PROPITIOUS FOR WOMEN

In ancient folklore, the 14th day of a month was seen as particularly propitious for the birth of women. The 13th was considered propitious for marriage, and the tenth, 11TH, 16TH, and 20TH were lucky days for the birth of men. Hesiod, from the eighth century B.C., marked each day of the month as fortunate for some things and unlucky for others. The eighth and ninth were seen as good days for the "works of men," while reaping fruit and shearing sheep were best done on the tenth or 11TH. Although women had only one propitious birth day, their day was considered "holy above all."

She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness. – Proverbs 31 26

TIP OF THE WEEK

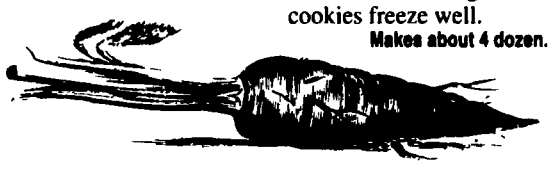
☞ If you're trying to lose weight, try drinking fennel tea for a natural way to reduce your hunger.

CARROT COOKIES

- 3/4 cup white sugar
- 3/4 cup butter
- 1 cup shredded raw carrots
- 1 egg
- 2-1/4 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Cream sugar and butter; beat in carrot and egg. Sift dry ingredients, stir into carrot mixture, then mix in orange rind. Drop teaspoonsful onto greased cookie sheets and bake at 375° F for 10 minutes. Both dough and cookies freeze well.

Makes about 4 dozen.



The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

If a chicken gizzard separates easily from the inner skin, look for an "open winter."

When the clouds appear like rocks and towers, the earth's refreshed by frequent showers.

Special Offer
Handy chart full of interesting weather proverbs. Send $3 to Weather Chart, Dept. UF, The Old Farmer's Almanac, Box 520, Dublin, NH 03444.

OPINION

WHY?

The agriculture industry—farmers, their oranizations, and agribusinesses need to focus attention on the lack of knowledge about farming among our nation's young people. The Poultry Post, published by the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, reports in the January issue that 35 percent of teenage girls and 18 percent of teenage boys expressed enough concern for animals that it was the major reason they thought it was a good idea to be a vegetarian.

The Gillette Company receives hundreds of threatening letters every year from students (some encouraged to write by their teachers) about their "Nazi" cruelty to animals in their laboratory. Many young female teachers are likely to teach some or all of the animal rights philosophy.

There is no end to the examples of the prevalence of the animal rights influence in the classroom. But there is little evidence that the agricultural side of the story is being presented.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has a product promotion matching grant program that one dairy group thinks it could use to develop a workbook on agriculture products for fourth grade students. This is commendable but still involves only a limited part of the agriculture industry. And the classroom is only one way young people learn.

Not only should animal husbandry and technological advances in agriculture be taught in the classroom, the teachers in these classrooms need to be taught, too. In addition, sympathic agricultural ideas need to invade the kids' educational programs on TV.

And who should get involved? Let's drop a few names. The Grange. Farm Bureau. The Council of Farm Organizations. Penn State's Ag Council. The Council of Cooperatives. The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council Mid East. The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association. The FFA Foundation. The Association of County Agents. The Association of Agriculture Teachers. Every farm organization and business.

Everyone should participate in a project to focus on the humane methods now used to produce animal products and the environmental havoc that would occur if we didn't have farmers there to care for the land.

Agriculture has a very important and positive message to tell. But this good news of food is not getting through to our young people.

Why?

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Control Stress

The Blizzard of 1996 is now history.

With more snow being forecasted for this weekend, our nerves are starting to wear thin.

As people, we are creatures of habit. We like our daily routine without changes. We have developed our management programs that work and require little extra effort.

The real test of people is how we handle the unexpected, such as 30 inches of snow. Attitude determines how we cope. Since we cannot change the weather, we must work to control the results.

Some ideas on how to cope:

- Take time to enjoy the snow.
- Spend some time playing with the children.
- Get plenty of rest.
- Do preventative maintenance on equipment. The few extra minutes checking and replacing worn parts could save many hours of fixing breakdowns under less-than-ideal situations.
- Help neighbors and work together to help each other.

By keeping a good attitude, things go better and people will enjoy being around you.

To Watch Roofs

With this much snow coupled with drifts, roofs could begin to fail, especially if we receive rain or sleet.

The snow will act as sponge, absorb water, and increase its weight.

Often snow piles up very deep at certain spots on the roof. Do a check of your roofs, especially flat roofs or ones with very little slope. Some shoveling of snow now could prevent a major problem later.

When shoveling roofs, be sure to take some safety precautions. Use ropes and make sure they are securely fastened to help prevent you from falling off.

To Check Ventilation Systems

Another area you will want to check is the components of your ventilation system.

Check inlets to make sure snow has not blocked them closed. Next, check the fans to make sure they are not snowed in.

Finally, check your standby generator to make sure it is operating. Make sure you have adequate fuel to operate the generator for several days.

Also, check all vents to generators, heaters, furnaces, dryers, etc. to make sure they are not blocked. This will ensure proper operation and prevent carbon monoxide poisoning.

If you are using space heaters, follow all safety precautions to prevent fires and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "What happens to a person is less significant than what happens within him."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

FAILING GLORIOUSLY
January 14, 1996

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 49:1-6
Devotional Reading:
Malachi 3:1-5

Longinus wrote, "In great attempts it is glorious even to fail."

I don't know who Longinus is, but I wish I had come across that quotation decades ago. Learning to deal with failure and disappointment is one of our hardest lessons and perhaps some of us never pass the course. Fortunately, God permits us to take the exam over and over again.

Failure is particularly hard to handle when we think we are doing something for God. When I came out of seminary, I naively expected that I would evangelize my parish the first year, all of Harrisburg the second year, and the rest of the state of Pennsylvania the year after that. (I'm overstating the case just a little!)

Well, it didn't go like that and there were certainly times when I could have easily joined Isaiah in complaining, "I have labored in vain, I have spent my strength for nothing and vanity..." (49:4a). There must be times in the lives of each of us when we feel that way.

THE LAST WORD

It is strange that we should be so discouraged by what appear to be poor results. After all, we follow Jesus who died on a cross in shame and defeat. Of course, you and I know that he was raised from the tomb and vindicated. So, the last word on Christ's ministry and mission was pronounced, not by the world, but by God. So it is with us, too.

The Servant comes to this realization, too: " ...yet surely my right is with the Lord, and my recompense with my God." We are justified in our discipleship, not by the judgements of the world, but by those which come from God. In his book, The Keys of the Kingdom, A. J. Cronin says, "One should remember that the defeated still have everything if they still have God." If we still have God we are never defeated and our work is not in vain!

I do not deny that earthly honor is nice to receive. But no matter how sweet those accolades are, they do not last. As the Servant says, "I am honored in the eyes of the Lord, and my God has become my strength..." (49:5b). There it is: if I can focus upon my honor in the eyes of the Lord, I cannot be defeated and my life cannot be wasted.

A BIGGER TASK!

God makes a surprising response to the discouraged Servant. Despondent in the results of his mission to date, the Servant's mission is expanded rather than reduced. Originally he was to revive Israel. But, says God, "It is too light a thing that you should be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will give you as a light to the nations, that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth" (49:6).

In the face of the staggering tasks to which God calls us, it is vital for us to realize that "my God has become my strength." Whatever we need to do what God calls us to do is to be found in him alone. It is nice to have our efforts recognized. It is wonderful to have someone supporting us in our efforts. But only the strength that God gives us is sufficient for the tasks to which he calls us.

It may seem as if we are failing, but let us remember that "In great attempts it is glorious even to fail." So let us not duck the great challenges to which he calls us. And, if we fail, let us fail gloriously!

Agribusiness Awards Presented At Farm Show Banquet

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The annual Farm Show dinner was held Friday evening, this year ahead of the snow storm. In the past, the official dinner was on Saturday evening, but to better host the 100 foreign trade visitors to the farm show, the earlier day served as an introduction to Pennsylvania's agriculture.

As usual, the commodity kings, queens, princesses, ambasadors, and representatives were introduced as they brought gifts to Gov. Tom Ridge. The gifts were received by Pennsylvania State Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius and Mrs. Brosius in behalf of the Pennsylvania's first family.

Brosius also presented the 1996 Agribusiness Achievement Awards. This award recognizes companies with sales under $5 million and over $5 million for contributions to the development and expansion of agribusiness in Pennsylvania.

Naylor Wine Cellars, Inc., of Stewartstown, York County, received the award in the small business category.

And Furman Foods, Inc., of Northumberland, Northumberland County, won the large company category.

Richard H. Naylor founded Naylor Wine Cellars in 1978. Naylor operates a 27-acre vineyard and winery on a 52-acre farm that employs 10 full-time people.

The winery produces over eight thousand cases of wine each year including 20 varieties of table wines and five fruit and berry wines. The wine is sold locally at a winery operated retail store and is also sold directly to restaurants and other licensed establishments.

The goal of Naylor Wine Cellars is to strive for quality first and foremost, and to share the skill of grapegrowing and the art of winemaking with others interested in becoming part of this traditional craft.

Naylor, in accepting the award, said he was delighted to have the wine industry receive recognition, and added, "We're farmers. This is a year 'round farming operation."

Since its establishment in 1921 Furman Foods has enjoyed a reputation for high quality and service in the industry. Furman's processes a variety of canned vegetables in retail and Foodservice sizes for food distributors throughout the eastern United States. The retail sizes are sold in supermarkets, and the Foodservice sizes are used in restaurants, hospitals, and schools.

In 1995, Furman's broke all previous tomato production records in its history, producing 56.6% more cases of whole peeled tomatoes than they produced in 1994. Furman Foods strives to supply customers with the highest quality canned vegetables available on the market.

Their goal is to be the best regional packer of canned vegetables by offering consistent top quality at a marketable price. Furman Foods has positioned itself in the marketplace as being flexible and offering excellent service allowing them to be competitive with much larger companies in the industry.

Donald Guise, president of Furman's, observed that it is the 75th anniversary of the family company, and said that 25 percent of its product is consumed by Pennsylvanians. Furman's James Kohl thanked the Department for its "support and responsiveness" and recognized the valuable contribution of research to continue to be competitive at the national level.

Speaking at the dinner, Brosius observed that Pennsylvania's agricultural industry is unique with its spirit of cooperation and friendship. "We have a desire to look to the common good and to work together to achieve success," he said. He added that the Pennsylvania Farm Show is a glowing demonstration of that common spirit.

He recognized members of the State Farm Show Products Commission for its work to improve the show each year, and he thanked the employees of the Department of Agriculture for preparing and carrying out the show.

Brosius also recognized the contributions of the late Sam Morris, who provided leadership in winning approval for a $100 million bond issue which made it possible to preserve farmland and open space.

Cline, Eric Stewart; PA Apple Queen: Kristin Johnston; PA Cattlemen's Queen: Roxanne Marie Kirst; PA Dairy Goat Youth Representative: Amy Elizabeth Plummer; PA Dairy Princess: Rhonda Joy Kieklak; PA Draft Horse and Mule Queen: Mary Katherine Biddle; PA Evergreen Queen XXXII: Alysha Schultz; PA Fair Queen: Jennifer Marie Randall; PA FFA Representative: Darla Herr; PA Flying Farmer Queen: Aileen Y. Path To Supreme Champion Lamb Begins On The Treadmill

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Fifteen minutes of working the lamb on the treadmill every day paid off big when the lamb's chief "trainer," Lisa Reiff, walked away with a supreme champion banner on Wednesday at the Farm Show.

Lisa, 17, daughter of Lloyd and Laura Reiff, Strasburg, had complete control of her Hampshire/Suffolk heavyweight crossbred, "Marty," as she strolled to a championship.

There, judge Mark Johnson, Montadale and Southdown breeder from Sandwich, Ill., chose Reiff's wether from four others carefully selected from the many breeds represented.

Johnson said all four in the final selection were "stylish, pretty lambs" but one had the firmness and "extra length and style" to win the championship banner.

Johnson said he was a "superstrong supporter of breed wether shows" such as the one at Farm Show.

Lisa, a senior at Lampeter-Strasburg High School, has shown many champion sheep at a variety of county, state, and regional shows.

Lisa named her supreme champion "Marty" after the person she purchased the lamb from in Illinois. She said working the lamb on a treadmill at 4 a.m. for 15 minutes every day helped provide a champion lamb.

Johnson selected the Suffolk spring ewe exhibited by Callie Chapman, South Franklin, as reserve champion.

Callie, 11, daughter of Joan and Jeffrey Chapman, is in the 6th grade at McGuffey Intermediate School. She is a three-year member of South Franklin Morris 4-H. This is her first champion at the Farm Show.

There was a total of 138 sheep at the market show. Following is a list of show placings.

Dairymen's Banquet Cancelled But Exemplary Honorees Named

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association banquet scheduled for Monday evening in conjunction with the Farm Show was cancelled because of the snow storm. But the honorees that would have received recognition at that time are quite exemplary. They are:

* Joyce Bupp, Seven Valleys, Pennsylvania Outstanding Dairy Women.

* Samuel Minor, Eighty Four, the Charles E. Cowan Memorial Award.

* C.W. (Bill) Heald, Professor, Dairy Science, Penn State, the Extension Award.

Joyce and her husband, Leroy, milk 225 registered Holsteins on their York County farm. In addition to managing the dairy operation, they grow corn, hay and soybeans on their own 250-acre farm and 500 acres of rented land. Joyce and Leroy have two children and one grandson. Daughter Patricia works as a home-ec teacher in Oregon. Son Richard works on the home farm with his parents.

Her leadership abilities at the farm, in the community and her verbal presentation skills, were recognized in 1971, when she and her husband were selected as the Dairymen, Inc., Young Dairymen Couple of their region.

In 1984, she was elected to the Division Board of Directors of Dairymen, Inc., representing membership in York County. The local board elected Joyce to be seated as a Director on the Corporate Board of Dairymen, Inc. with headquarters in Louisville, Kentucky, in 1987. Soon thereafter, her leadership abilities were quickly recognized as she was elected as board member of the Flav-O-Rich processing subsidiary of Dairymen, Inc.

She has served on the Dairymen, Inc. Young Dairymen Committee as both member and chairperson. She has also served as chairperson of Dairymen, Inc. Special Action Community Education (SPACE) Trust. As an instructor of the cooperative's Young Dairymen's Couples training seminar, she has given special emphasis on media response training.

In 1991 Joyce was elected vice president of Dairymen Inc. Mid Atlantic Division Board.

While serving in her role as director and farmer, Joyce has served as a member of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives and Penn State's instructor staff responsible for training directors of cooperatives and management personnel.

In addition to all the work Joyce has done with cooperatives, she is a writer/columnist for Lancaster Farming and York Dispatch newspapers. Everett Newswanger, managing editor of Lancaster Farming states, "Joyce is filled with energy and you can count on her to get things done. Her column in Lancaster Farming 'On Being a Farm Wife And Other Hazards' is one of the most widely read pieces in the paper. She has the personal experience and empathy with farmers to go with her pleasing personality. This shows up in her features on farm families to give her stories that down-on-the-farm flavor everyone appreciates."

Sam began his career as a dairyman on a small farm in Greene County with his father and two brothers. Upon graduation from Mapletown High School, he went on to Penn State University and as a walk-on with the Penn State wrestling team earned a full scholarship for wrestling within the first year. He earned his degree in Agriculture Economics and went on to work for the American Guernsey Cattlemen's Association. From there he was hired by Eastern Breeders Cooperative where he supervised 300 fieldmen. After a year in California with Carnation Genetics and a year working with friends, the Hardings, in their dairy farm/farm market operation, Sam and Bev Minor started farming at their current farm in Eighty Four.

Currently, Sam is a board member of the Agway Board of Directors and also serves on the Executive and Planning Committee for this farmer cooperative. He also serves on the Telemark Board.

Sam serves on the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives.

For the past 12 years, he has been a member of the Penn West Farm Credit ACA and has served in various capacities on that board. He is a past member of the executive committee and is currently on the marketing board. Sam is the Penn West representative for Ag-First's District Advisory Committee. He also served as the chairman of the committee that was appointed to advise the Baltimore District Band Board on bank consolidation.

Sam serves as one of two representatives of Penn State University to the National Association of State University and Land Grant Colleges. He was recently elected Vice-Chairman of that Association.

Locally, Sam serves as Chairman of the Health Futures Board of the Washington Hospital, and on the North Strabane Township Planning Commission. He has also served as a Canon McMillan School Board Director, and was a member of the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative Board, and the Washington County Agriculture Extension Committee. In his church, Grace United Methodist, Sam served on the Administrative

Monster-Sized Sundae: This Kid Digs In

Freddie Conner, 3, gets first chance to dig into this monster-sized ice-cream sundae at the Farm Show Wednesday afternoon. The little fellow's mom and dad, Fred and Dawn Conner, drove through the snow on their annual visit to the show from Duncansville in Blair County.

The "creation of pure indulgence," was new this year at the Farm Show and featured over a pint of ice cream and two toppings, with choices of chocolate, caramel, strawberry, and crushed Reese's Pieces. As you can see, there are two extra spoons in Freddie's sundae so that this complete dairy feast, with the addition of whipped cream and a cherry, could satisfy the whole family's appetite for ice cream.

David Smith, executive director of Dairymen's, said it is a wonderful opportunity to work with the dairy promotion groups to promote our delicious dairy products.

Dairymen's Banquet Cancelled But Exemplary Honorees Named

board and as a lay minister.

The Minor family business continues to keep Sam and his wife Bev busy at home, too. On their 420-acre farm, they milk two herds totaling 100 cows. They farm and grow produce on much of the acreage. Their milk is processed and sold through their country store and restaurant, The SpringHouse, in Eighty Four. An average of 700 people visited them every day during the week before Christmas! Along with milking cows, Sam oversees the farm operation, the business finances, the ham smoking, the customer-pleasing, and of course he has to taste all of The SpringHouse goodies to be sure they're "just right" to sell! According to Bev, Sam is their biggest critic!

Sam and Bev's five children and five grandchildren bring special joy into their lives. All five Minor children attended Penn State and are leading busy lives throughout the country. Daughter Marcia and husband Don live on the farm. Marcia and Bev are a great team that makes The SpringHouse hum. Daughter Tee and husband John live in Baltimore, where Tee enjoys raising their two children and leads several Bible studies and fellowship groups. The Minors' twin daughter Jill and husband Kelly have returned to Washington County with their two daughters, and have opened the SpringHouse Learning Station preschool. Their other twin daughter Jody and husband Eric live in Chicago where Jody has worked for Mobil Oil for eight years. Son Sam currently works in Baltimore as a construction company foreman. However, he and his wife Marsha plan to move back to Washington County with their son to work alongside Dad Minor within the next year.

Ken Raney from the Pennsylvania Holstein Association presents an appreciation award to Rhonda Kleklak, Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, from the Dairymen's Association at the dairy show Tuesday. The presentation would have been made at the Dairymen's banquet, but due to the snow storm, that event was cancelled.

Bill joined the PSU Dairy and Animal Science staff in 1981 after a 10-year career in teaching and research at Virginia Tech (VPI). Since that time he has been a full-time extension specialist in the Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

Bill is a native of Chester County, Pennsylvania and graduated from Penn State with a degree in Dairy Science in 1964. He continued his education with an M.S. degree in Animal Science from The University of New Hampshire in 1966 and obtained his Ph.D. degree also in Animal Science from Virginia Tech in 1969. He stayed on at Virginia Tech for more than a decade and was an Associate Professor at the time he moved to Penn State.

Bill has been involved in many projects with many people during his 14 years in the Dairy and Animal Science Department. He first worked with the DHIA program where he conducted educational programs in the areas of dairy records, dairy management and udder health. He also served as interim general manager of PaDHIA in 1984 and 1985. One of his major accomplishments was to encourage DHIA to purchase equipment that would measure somatic cell counts (SCC) in the milk of tested cows. When such information became available on a large number of cows he designed the procedures that summarized the data and reported it back to the individual herd where it could be used to monitor mammary health.

Dr. Heald recently developed a computerized mastitis knowledge base for use in the first Mastitis Expert System to be used in this country. He has been involved in many areas of interest to the dairy industry. One of the most recent is the Dairy Map program which he adapted for use in Pennsylvania after observing the Pro-Dairy project developed at Cornell for New York state dairy producers.

Now in its fourth year in Pennsylvania, Dairy Map has attracted widespread attention both in-state and out. He has also organized a professional dairy managers group and offered strong encouragement to Pennsylvania dairy leadership to form the Pennsylvania Dairy Industry Future Committee with the vision to develop a strategy that will enhance the future of the state's dairy industry. Bill has also served as an interim head of the Dairy and Animal Science department and recently completed a three-year stint as coordinator of the departments extension specialist group. His efforts have brought him in contact with dairymen, county extension personnel and agricultural leaders from the state and the nation.

Bill has had numerous committee assignments at the departmental and college level at Penn State and he has been an active participant in national meetings of his professional societies. He completed a sabbatic leave at Cornell University in 1988 while improving computer skills that would assist in developing dairy management decision making programs. He is currently on leave at the University of Minnesota working with computers in the area of technology transfer and use of case studies as tools for educational programming.

Bill is a member of the American Dairy Science Association, the American Society of Animal Science, Dairy Shrine, Penn State Dairymen's Club and several honor societies. Bill and wife Judy live in Spring Mills, and are the parents of two children, Beth and Evan.

David Smith, executive secretary, said the banquet is not likely to be rescheduled. The honorees will receive their awards personally.

Tired of going Around And Around In That Endless Loop Of Computer Problems?

Then switch to Pennsylvania DHIA. Our Dairy Records Processing Center:

- Is Farmer owned and controlled.
- Has been in continuous operation since 1957.
- Has made electronic information abailable online via the ARIS system for over ten years.
- Has among the highest percentage of USDA useable records of any processing center in the industry.
- Has proven itself in the style of dairying actually done in the Northeastern US. We do small, medium, and large herds, colored breeds, purebred breeders and commercial dairymen.
- Works with CTAP, Westfalia Dairyplan, DeLeval Herdmaster Galaxy, Boumatic Total Dairy, Herd Monitor, Dairy Comp 305, and other popular farm and vet management programs.
- Speaks ASCII and DII, and includes templates for several popular spreadsheets. We write custom interfaces for large practices and nutritionists to your specifications. No proprietary formats or programs to buy!
- Offers test day computer generated reports, and a full complement of lab services including fat, protein, lactose, SCC and MUN.
- Provides more innovative programs than any other in the country. We have a test day plan to meet your needs.

Get reliable, proven computer processing--not just promises.

Wagner's Jersey Supreme Champion At Farm Show

Wagner farms 200 acres with his father. They have 70 cows that include several breeds. Their prefix is Bo-Joy.

The runner-up to the supreme champion was the grand champion Brown Swiss for Richard Martin, Volant, in Lawrence County. Campswiss Supreme Faith is classified Excellent 91 and has lifetime milk records in three lactations of 54,000 pounds. Her dam Bowers Johnny Mazella was also Excellent. Faith has a string of show wins, including grand champion in western Pennsylvania and was nominated for the All-American award.

The grand champion Holstein was the home-bred Fountain Farm Star B Empress that topped the three year-old class for Harry and Aliene Thompson, Carlisle, in Cumberland County. Empress is sired by Starbuck, and her dam is a show cow with 200,000m lifetime.

The grand champion Ayrshire was Eureka Pride Opal, shown by Seth Wolfgang, Bechtelsville, Berks County. The aged cow has not been classified but has won at numerous shows, including grand champion at Reading Fair. Opal's sire is Mar-Ral Commander's Pride, and her dam is Eureka Liberator Cheryl.

The grand champion Guernsey was the aged cow, Lebanon Valley Ned Kathy, for Thomas Smith, Lebanon Valley Farms, Annville, Lebanon County. She is scored excellent at 90 points and was the reserve grand champion at the Pennsylvania All-American.

The grand champion Milking Shorthorn was Innisfail RB Lily 230-EXP shown by Horizon Farm, New Enterprise, Bedford County. Lilly is Excellent at 90 points and has a 3y record of 17,480m. She had not been shown at the Farm Show before but had been reserve grand champion at the Eastern National and was second in class at the World Dairy Expo.

Gov. Ridge said before he was in public service he was like most consumers and took dairy products for granted. But now he aware that dairy farming dominates the farm industry and said he was pleased to come back to the Farm Show to present the supreme champion honors.

"It is a pleasure for me, along with Sec. Brosius and Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show Commissioner, to recognize the supreme champion," Ridge said.

A list of the top placings in the dairy shows are as follows:

Youth Have Lots Of Nicknames For Champion Bred Sheep

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Youth at championship lamb breed shows don't always know what to name their lambs.

Some don't name them anything, like Jacob Garges, who exhibited the champion Merino ewe.

However, Kelly Glaser named her champion Corriedale ewe "Diane." And Shane Conaway named his Suffolk champion "Polly."

Darla Phillips' Southdown champion was named "Sooner."

Billy Leib had no names for his champion Shropshire, a yearling ewe, nor for his champion Columbia, a spring ewe lamb, at the youth breeding show on Wednesday.

Whatever the case, youth don't always need names for animals that show a championship style, according to judges of various breed sheep shows on Wednesday.

Corriedale

Kelly Glaser, 15, Limekiln, said that feeding — "I feed them a lot," she said — is a key to a championship. She showed Diane, a yearling ewe, part of her flock, at the sheep breeding show.

Kelly has exhibited a variety of champions at fairs and regional shows. She said she won a couple of years ago at the Farm Show.

Merino

Jacob Garges, 14, won champion Merino ewe at the youth breed show on Wednesday.

Jacob, son of Eileen and Paul Garges, Telford, is in the 8th grade at Penn View Christian School. He exhibited a fall ewe lamb.

Shropshire, Columbia, Rambouillet

Billy George Leib, 15, exhibited the grand champion Shropshire, Columbia, and Rambouillet ewes at the Farm Show.

Billy, who has won a variety of awards at the Farm Show, showed a yearling ewe to Shropshire champion, a spring ewe lamb to Columbia championship, and showed the champion Rambouillet.

'Meet The Grower' Educates Crowd At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Crowds of people visiting the 80th Pennsylvania State Farm Show were treated to samples of quality Pennsylvania apples, and some good advice, at the "Meet the Grower" display in the show's East Lobby.

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program, "Meet the Grower" provides an opportunity for visitors to sample apple varieties - including Gala, Golden Delicious, Stayman, and Red Delicious - and find out more about the care and attention that goes into the growing of apples.

"A lot of work goes into apple production," Brad Hollabaugh, part owner of Hollabaugh Brothers, Inc. of Biglerville, Adams County, said. "Working with the various personnel, nutrition and pruning . . . there are a lot of things to do on the farm."

Eastern apples are known for their high sugar content and good taste, Hoilabaugh said. According to Hollabaugh, the Pennsylvania apple industry is moving in three main directions: 1) To continue and stabilize the processing of apples; 2) To maintain classic apple varieties, such as Red Delicious and Stayman; and 3) To move into the production of new varieties, such as the Gala and Jonagold.

Pennsylvania-grown apples and apple products have been popular in the Keystone State for many years, and are now being shipped to many foreign countries.

"Brazil is a large customer," Hollabaugh said. "The Dominican Republic, other Central and South American countries, and in Europe - Sweden" are major buyers of Pennsylvania apples in the international market.

Manning the display during International Day at the Farm Show, Hollabaugh extended its hours to accommodate the number of international visitors.

Montadale

Tisha Ebling, 17, daughter of Jane and Warren Ebling, Newmanstown, won champion in the Montadale breed.

The champion was a spring lamb.

Cheviot

Michelle Snyder won champion in the Cheviot breed.

Michelle, 15, daughter of Jack and Donna Snyder, Parker, won champion and reserve in the breed with yearling ewes.

Dorset

Jaime Fought won champion of the Dorset breed.

Jaime, Carlisle, won champion Dorset with her yearling ewe.

Reserve champion went to Ann Leed, Myerstown, for her fall ewe lamb.

Hampshire

Matt Trostle, 17, son of Ronald and Yvonne Trostle, Red Lion, showed the champion Hampshire ewe, a spring ewe lamb.

Reserve champion went to Josette Fought, 14, Carlisle, for her spring ewe.

Oxford

Champion and reserve of the Oxford breed class went to Isaac Garges, son of Eileen and Paul Garges, Telford.

Isaac showed his spring ewe lambs to both champion and reserve.

Suffolk

Shane Conaway, 11, son of John and Diane Conaway, Newville, showed the champion Suffolk, a spring ewe lamb named "Polly."

Reserve Suffolk was shown by Kelly Pike, 14, daughter of Shirley and Jack Pike, Quakertown. The Suffolk was a spring ewe lamb.

Southdown

Darla Phillips, 10, daughter of Denny and Debbie Phillips, Washington, exhibited the champion Southdown, a spring ewe lamb by the name of "Sooner."

Reserve champion went to Kyle Fleener, with a spring ewe lamb.

Centre County Farm Exhibits Top Draft Horse

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Lewis and Gail Biddle family of Boalsburg, Centre County exhibited the supreme champion draft horse at the 80th Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

OHF Classy Rita, a Belgian draft horse, took the championship banner. Rita, winner of the Belgian breed class, competed against a Percheron and a Clydesdale for the championship.

"We ride her and drive her ... she had good colts for us," Lewis Biddle said.

Classy Rita has won awards in shows in several other states, including Kentucky, Michigan, and Ohio.

The Biddles have shown draft horses at the Farm Show for 17 years, and this was their first supreme champion.

The whole Biddle family is involved in raising and showing Belgians out of Oak Hall Farm. Daughter Jennifer and son Todd were showing at the Farm Show, while daughter Katie, the Pennsylvania State Draft Horse Queen, was on hand to award the championship banner.

Jennifer expressed her belief in the Belgian as a dual-purpose animal, for draft and riding purposes.

"I have a mare that won grand champion at the American Belgian Show at the Ohio State Fair in 1994, and I ride her in hunter classes," she said.

The Biddles plan to keep breeding, showing, and selling their Belgians in the United States and Canada.

Farm Show Honors Farm-City Representatives

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Winners of the Pennsylvania Farm-City Council's 1995 recognition program and poster contest were honored during the 80th State Farm Show.

Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius presented plaques to representatives of three county programs and three student artists on behalf of the Farm-City Council on Tuesday.

"Urban and rural residents need to work together to ensure a good quality of life for future generations," Brosius said. "Farm acreage continues to decline in Pennsylvania, but our 51,000 farm families still produce an abundance of high quality, affordable food and fiber for our neighbors here and abroad.

"Agriculture is part of everyone's life, every day of the year. The abundance that starts on the land with our farmers is an important aspect in our economy and culture, and we want to share that message."

Representatives of the Franklin, Mifflin, and Tioga county farm-city committees received plaques of recognition for their outstanding efforts to promote farm-city understanding throughout the past year.

In Franklin County, a variety of activities included a farm tour and open house, an agricultural exposition at the mall, an apple festival, poster contest and annual banquet.

The Mifflin County Committee sponsored a work exchange, a rotary-rural day luncheon, school programs, a fall frolic, and a farm-city banquet with farm family and business family awards.

The Tioga County Committee sponsored a farm-city day, which included wagon tours, conservation and crop discussions, agriculture exhibits and demonstrations, along with a petting zoo.

Three teen-agers received checks from the State Farm-City Council for their artistic interpretation of the 1995 poster theme, "Farms and Cities. . .We Need Each Other."

The winning poster was submitted by Stephanie Wyland of Washington. A ninth grader at Trinity High School, Stephanie's poster won at the Washington County Fair, which qualified her for the $100 first prize in the state contest. The judges felt it best portrayed the theme, showing a chain linking farm and city production together.

The second place poster, depicting a farm and city as cogs turning together, was submitted by Brandi Forrester, a tenth grader at Shippensburg Area Senior High School. She qualified through the Shippensburg Community Fair and received $75 for her efforts.

Third place and $50 goes to John Barilla of Dallas, a tenth grade student at Bishop O'Reilly School. He qualified through the Kiwanis Wyoming County Fair with his depiction of a fram and city scene.

The farm-city posters received from county fairs for the state contest were displayed on the north wall of the Family Corner, located on the second floor of the Northeast Building.

Delaware Extension Goes On Line

NEWARK, Del. — The New Castle County office of Delaware Cooperative Extension announces the debut of its on-line information service, called NCCExt-List. The list is an automated e-mailing service developed to inform area clientele about extension programs in horticulture, agriculture, home economics, 4-H, and youth.

NCCExt-List distributes announcements that before would have been released only by mail, news releases, brochures, and newsletters. Extension agent and list owner Jo Mercer said NCCExt-List will be a convenient way for the computer-using public to learn about the latest offering in quality educational programs. She notes that people who live and work in New Castle County could find something of interest on NCCExt-List, regardless of their age or educational background.

To become a subscriber, address an e-mail message to: majordomo@udel.edu and compose a one-line message of the format: subscribe nccext-list Email-Address. For example: subscribe nccext-list 2345.1234 @compuserve.com

Mercer points out that CompuServe users must substitute a "." for the "," in their numerical addresses. After a short time, subscribers will receive confirmation of their subscriptions by e-mail. Notices will also start arriving in their e-mailboxes at about the same time.

1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show In Review

into heavy use to open and keep clear main traffic arteries before hitting side streets or alleys.

A quickly trite question became, "Where are we going to put all this snow?"

While snow removal activities continued early Friday morning, another winter storm was predicted to bring another half foot or more of snow to the same area by Friday evening.

Some rural areas probably didn't see a plow much before Thursday, and it was reflected in this year's Farm Show — the weekly attendance was estimated at half normal and a lot of people couldn't get to or leave the Farm Show Complex.

However, a record price for a market steer was set Thursday despite delays and the lack of some supporters being able to attend.

Even with the state of emergency declared for all day Monday, the Farm Show judging events continued. Qualified judges were recruited from among those at the Farm Show, or nearby.

Youth and adult exhibitors who made it to the Farm Show, or were snowed in with hundreds of others helped show entries for other exhibitors stranded at home.

The event was a victory of human spirit and camaraderie, according to Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show director.

On Thursday, after six days of not being able to go home from the Farm Show Complex, in jest, Grumbine said Thursday, "We pretty much held the Farm Show without an audience."

Accounting for about 30 hours sleep in six days, with 12 from Wednesday into Thursday morning, Grumbine said he estimated the attending crowd might be about 25 percent of normal.

"But everybody's been super to work with," he said. "Everybody's been terribly complimentary about the show and the help."

With a skeleton staff, Grumbine said that about 100 people from the agriculture community helped man telephones, helped with shows, helped move things, and whatever was needed to keep the shows as much on schedule as possible.

"Probably, as I walked around, several hundred other people asked if there was anything they could do to help," Grumbine said.

"I think that's the ethic we have in the agriculture community — people willing to work for the better.

"If the world could get along as well as the people snowed in at the Farm Show Complex, a lot of the problems would be solved."

Without access to specific numbers, on Thursday Grumbine said he estimated that about 50 judges for the different Farm Show contests had to be replaced. He said he based that on the phone conservations he had directly and reorganization efforts of some key events that he was directly involved in handling.

There are several hundred officials that the Farm Show administration takes care of as far as accomodations and travel arrangements, and picking up expenses.

It was definitely one of the most unusual Farm Shows, Grumbine said, relying on his straight run of 33 years at the Farm Show, of which 16 years he served as a member of the Farm Show Commission. It was also the first year he didn't show any livestock. He has shown champion swine and sheep.

According to Grumbine, there were about 1,800 people stranded at the Farm Show as captive overnight guests Sunday night and Monday night. He commended everyone of them for their cooperation and attitude.

"We had plenty of food," Grumbine said adding that his sense of the fellowship was that of a "hunting camp atmosphere" in which people of all titles willingly set aside their social or business titles and pitch in on chores. At the same time he also compared the experience to a summer camp.

For breakfast Monday morning, "The building superintendent ran the grill in the cafeteria, while others were scrambling eggs or dicing potatoes."

With the Farm Shows 250 employees, the hundreds or exhibitors and families stranded there, Grumbine said that the people found ways to entertain themselves during off hours, such as picking up touch football games in the Large Arena, and the younger kids playing in the Small Arena with toy trucks and such.

All the while, 12 pieces of snow removal equipment hauled tons or snow from the 40-acre parking lot and plowed out the front lots and driveways.

Grumbine said that some youth had been stranded at the Farm Show, having accompanied their animal(s) on the trip to Harrisburg, and their families snowed home on the farm.

On Thursday he said that parents should not worry. With the full support of Gov. Ridge, Grumbine said that the Farm Show has a 24-hour security, all the essentials (rooms, showers, food, medical facilities) and that they youth and their livestock would be looked after until Grumbine was satisfied that road conditions were reasonable for safe travel back home.

With an auto and boat show scheduled for Jan. 20-27 at the Farm Show Complex, everything from the Farm Show has to be removed quickly.

Grumbine said that Gov. Ridge has allowed the use of another state facility for temporary storage of equipment so that commercial exhibitors' property would be safe until travel conditions improved.

Beverly Gruber, speaking on behalf of the commodity promotion groups that sold food in the Food Court, sales were down about half. The Farm Show public opening on Saturday was the biggest day for business, she said on Thursday, with Wednesday following next. However, heavy crowds appeared on the last day and stayed past the 4 p.m. closing, obviously driving up sales at the last minute.

One commercial exhibitor said he hadn't made a sale on his grain storage equipment all week until Thursday.

Other commercial exhibitors also commented on the lack of a heavy crowd, but those who sold snow shovels did some brisk business, and there were still thousands in attendance. On Sunday while the storm was breaking out heavily, the parking lot was up to half capacity.

Commercial food business exhibitors set up this year for the first time in the West Lobby, adjacent to the Main Lobby and the butter sculpture site. The location seemed perfect for exposure without confusing those businesses with Food Court sales.

Many of those who attended the Farm Show said it was actually one of the better for them because of the lack of long lines for food, or distractions and time restraints when trying to discuss machinery, equipment and other business.

Again, all spoke of the cooperation among those participating in the Farm Show with digging out each others vehicles, being more understanding of the work of others, and other such considerations.

Of course some of the Farm Show's planned events were cancelled, some without doubt for the first time.

Although a complete list of cancelled Farm Show events was not available from the press office by deadline, among those noted was the cancellation of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women (first time in the organization's 77 years), the annual banquet of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, the Scooper Bowl, Dairy Fun Night, Sheep-To-Shawl competition, the annual state FFA convention, the Master Farmer program, a lot of meetings of agricultural commodity or breed organizations, the folk dancing contests, and two goat breeds were unrepresented on Thursday (goats arrive Thursday and leave Thursday).

On the bright side, the Pennsylvania State Police, who had 90 members from troops around the state working out of their booth, reported only 11 lost children by 12:30 p.m. Thursday, only two disabled vehicles, and eight reported injuries from slips or falls.

They also reported two cows, one bull and one horse had to be recaptured during the week, after escaping the control of their owner.

Trooper Joe Nolte and Trooper Ervin Ward of Troop H (Harrisburg) said it was a pleasure to work at the Farm Show.

Ward said, "It is always a pleasure to help educate, answer questions and to help lost children find their parents."

He said that in addition to the general public assistance and information, the PSP booth also functioned as a traffic conditions news center with a direct line to Traffax (a traffic reporting service) and Pennsylvania Turnpike information.

Charles Itle, manager of livestock shows at the Farm Show, reported that almost all entries arrived for the show, and he said that dairy cattle show entries were up this show.

The 1997 Farm Show is scheduled to be held Jan. 11-16.

KILE Corriedale Champion = Farm Show Wool Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Wool breed and champion Corriedale exhibitor Melanie Bow-Horchler knows it's only a question of time.

Time spent in breeding and preparing an ewe for a championship, as well as proper selection for genetics, can net you a supreme champion.

It was those elements that combined to provide a supreme champion of the wool breeds for the Ben and Mary Bow family on Wednesday night at the Farm Show.

Melanie steadied the Corriedale ewe lamb, which became supreme champion ewe, through the show ring. In the end, the exhausted judge, James Kin from Upper Sandusky, Ohio realized it was almost a "no-win situation," choosing between a "buck and a ewe."

But in selecting the ewe as grand champion of the ewe breeds, Kin enjoyed the animal's "straightness on top, uniform fleece, and a good Corriedale head," he said. "You just have to like her."

Melanie said that obtaining a supreme championship is "really tough, it's a tough award to get" and said that "good luck and selecting the right animal" helped.

"Time has a lot to do with it, and feeding, providing the best nutrients to encourage growth," she said.

Also, time is essential, working over years to select the right animal and spending "hours and hours" preparing it. It involves about a "year's worth of work," including care and grooming for the competition, said Melanie.

The Bow family has been registered with the Corriedale association since about 1968 and showing for many years. The Bow family also picked up premier Corriedale breeder and exhibitor.

The ewe, said Melanie, was the champion Corriedale ewe at last year's Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE), also held at the Farm Show Complex.

Kin picked the Rambouillet spring ram lamb, exhibited by Billy George Leib, 15, as wool breed champion ram.

Kin said the ram exhibited "straightness of lines, a nice fleece, structural correctness, and a good front end."

Billy is the son of Bob and Suzie Leib, Mechanicsburg.

$26,000 Record Price For Farm Show Champion Market Steer

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Despite some people being tied up in hours' long traffic delays and being unable to attend, the annual Farm Show junior livestock sale of champions will go down in the books.

A record $26,000 was paid for the grand champion Farm Show market steer on Thursday in the Small Arena of the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Bill Campbell, CEO of Hoss's Steak and Sea House, broke his own previous record of $25,000 set in 1992 for the price paid for the grand champion market steer.

Campbell, of Duncansville, has been a strong supporter of agricultural youth programs in the state. Not only is he a consistent buyer at the state Farm Show, but he also supports youth programs in several counties and has been instrumental in developing and maintaining a Hoss's Fore FFA Golf Tournament fund raiser to support the state FFA program.

Casey High, son of Mae and Larry High of Lititz, showed the grand champion steer, a 1,270-pound Angus-Maine Anjou crossbred animal, nicknamed "Ziggy."

But he has been on a winning streak of sorts — he showed last year's reserve grand champion crossbreed steer and this year's grand champion at his local Manheim Farm Show — each with a different animal.

He said his win this year and the record price paid for his animal has been an exciting experience. His parents and an older sister Nicki showed steers at the Farm Show previously, but this was the family's first grand champion.

"We never won it before, so it was really exciting," he said adding that the money is targeted for college tuition.

High, 17, is a junior student at Warwick High School and he said that while he has plans to attend college, as of Thursday he had no specific academic goals for college. He said his interests were football, where he play defensive tackle, and steers. He said he has two steers at home on his parents' 12-acre farm that he plans to show at next year's Manheim Fair and Farm Show.

While the $26,000 price paid might seem steep, the sale of champions was changed in recent years to help support all youth by stipulating that for each of the three species offered for sale, the youth get to keep up to a certain amount paid, with the rest split 3:1 between the FArm Show Scholarship Fund and the youth, if he or she so chooses to take it.

This year, 15 $1,000 scholarships were presented in pre-sale ceremonies. That money was raised from last year's auction. The price paid by Hoss's ensures that scholarships can again be offered next year.

The reserve champion market steer was a 1,315-pound Angus shown by Curt Stockdale, of Dayton, who received $2,100 for his animal from buyer Lebanon Valley National Bank. Stockdale showed the grand champion market steer last year and received $20,000 then from Hoss's.

High Shows Grand Champion Market Steer

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — John Hausner, of Dover, in his second appearance as a Farm Show junior market steer judge, selected an Angus/Maine Anjou crossbred steer owned by Casey High, of Lititz, as the grand champion of the 1996 Farm Show.

Hausner was not the scheduled judge, however, since his scheduled flight to Denver, Colo., was cancelled, as was the incoming flight of the scheduled judge.

He said he accepted gratefully. "I feel it was an honor, that they think of enough of your opinion to ask you to judge. It doesn't always mean (the judge) is right, as long as they respect the judge's opinion."

Hausner said he judged the event about five years ago for the first time, and was pleased to be able to fill in on a moment's notice. He has previously judged in different states as well.

Owner of the JDA Cattle Co., Hausner is also a cattle consultant, custom fitter and shower, and he offers transportation services as well as running a small cow operation on his 60-acre farm.

High said he was excited with the win of his middleweight crossbred steer, the first grand championship of his family — parents Mac and Larry and sister Nicki — after years of showing.

The heavyweight champion crossbred steer was the reserve grand champion, owned by Curt Stockdale, of Armstrong County,who showed the grand champion at last year's Farm Show.

The steer show is held so that crossbred and registered purebred steers are judged separately and then the champions are brought into the ring for a final selection of grand and reserve grand. Each of the catagories is also divided by weight into lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight classes.

Of the crossbred entries, the champion lightweight was shown by Jason Mickle, of Bedford County, with the reserve shown by Kevin Campbell, of Greene County.

Casey High's steer was the champion middleweight crossbred, while Nathan Claycomb, of Bedford County, owned the reserve champion middleweight.

Stockdale's heavyweight was champion of its weight division, while David Cambruzzi showed the reserve champion.

Out of all the crossbred animals, High's was champion, while Stockdale's was reserve champion, placings that carried through.

In the registered Angus steer competition, an animal owned by Troy Gelsinger, of Berks County, was named champion, though he had a friend Bobby Davidson showing the animal for him. A week before the Farm Show, Gelsinger required an operation for appendicitis, but was present to watch his friend and animal take a victory.

Tammi Grub, of York County, showed the reserve champion Angus.

In the registered Limousin division, LaDonna Miller, of Bedford County, who showed last year's reserve grand champion steer, showed the champion, while Jeff Foreman, of Cumberland County, showed the reserve champion.

The last class contained all other purebred steers. A registered Shorthorn owned by David Newpher, of Berks County, was named champion, while a Hereford owned by Travis Reid, of York County was reserve champion.

champion market swine, a 270-pound Yorkshire/Hampshire cross, shown by David Smith, son of Marvin and Dorthea Smith, of Williamsport.

Smith, as did the other exhibitors of champions, said he was targeting the money raised for his education.

The reserve grand champion market swine was purchased for $2,500 by Hatfield Quality Meats of Hatfield. Andy Atkins, son of Bill and Judy Atkins of Lebanon, showed the 248-pound Yorkshire/Hampshire crossbreed.

The grand champion market lamb, a 132-pound Suffolk crossbreed, was purchased for $1,800 by Glatfelter Insurance from Lisa Reiff, daughter of Lloyd and Laura Reiff, Strasburg.

A 7-year veteran of Farm Show sheep showing, Reiff showed the reserve grand champion in 1991. She was also a member of the Lancaster County livestock judging team which went on to win the state and place first in sheep at the national contest in Louisville, Ky. She is to start college in the fall.

Sale totals and average prices per specie were not available from the PDA press office by presstime Friday morning.

The event, one of the highlights of the week-long Farm Show, included opening statements by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, and an a cappella singing of the national anthem was performed by Miss Pennsylvania Lynette Mertz, of Berks County.

UNIVERSITY PARK—Milk urea nitrogen testing (MUN) became available through the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (PA DHIA) October 1st of this year. The price for PA DHIA members is 15 cents per cow for a whole herd test along with fat, protein and somatic cell count. For non-members, the charge is 50 cents per cow (with a 30-cow minimum) for protein and MUN. To get fat, protein, SCC, and MUN, the cost is 65 cents per cow (with a 30-cow minimum).

Why would you want to measure MUN in the first place? Either blood or milk urea levels can be used to assess the protein status of dairy cattle and give some indication about health/production effects of excessive or inadequate protein in the diet. In addition, unneeded nitrogen can wind up a potential pollutant in the environment. Since MUN levels mimic blood urea nitrogen (BUN) levels, and the samples are easier to collect and process, MUN testing presents the quickest way to evaluate protein feeding for dairy cattle.

Ammonia is produced by microbial protein degradation in the rumen, or ammonia can arrive in the rumen on ammoniated silage. The rumen microbes use ammonia and fermentable carbohydrates to make amino acids and microbial protein which can be used by the cow after degradation in the small intestine. Excess ammonia is absorbed through the rumen wall and is converted to urea by the liver. Urea can be recycled through the saliva or excreted in the urine.

The imbalance of fermentable carbohydrates and protein or excess protein in the rumen can result in excess ammonia and urea. What are the consequences of high ammonia and urea? The primary health effects associated with high MUN levels include reproductive inefficiency, possible rumen damage due to high ammonia, and, possibly, laminitis. In addition, early lactation animals overfed protein may be more susceptible to ketosis.

Reproductive efficiency may be measured by conception rates, average days open, or days to first service, which are low, high, and high, respectively, with high MUN levels. Direct toxic effects of urea and ammonia on ova, sperm, and embryos could be one mechanism. Indirect effects from energy imbalance may be another mechanism for reproduction inefficiency.

High ammonia levels can damage rumen papillae. This may result in lower nutrient absorption and acidosis. If high ammonia levels occur periodically, cows can fluctuate in their dry matter intake and produce less milk.

Laminitis and thin soles have also been associated with high protein feeding and elevated urea nitrogen levels. In studies of steers, calves and cows, levels of crude protein over 18% were associated with the above foot problems. The mechanism by which this occurs is not known.

How high is too high? We suggest that MUN levels for dairy cows should be in the range of 10 to 14 mg/dl. MUN levels greater than 14 mg/dl could mean excess degradable intake protein (DIP) or soluble protein or restricted energy availability. MUN levels less than 10 mg/dl could mean inadequate DIP as well as restricted energy which could affect the rumen microbes' ability to degrade protein.

Caveats to interpretation of MUN levels include the variation from time after feeding, stage of lactation, and diseases which can result in high MUN. MUN levels will peak about 4 to 5 hours after feeding when cows are fed a TMR once per day. When fed twice per day, MUN values peaked 3 to 5 hours after the beginning of the morning feeding but decreased after the afternoon feeding. The number and timing of feedings should be kept in mind when interpreting the MUN levels. MUN levels may also be difficult to interpret from cows in early lactation because values naturally change during the early postpartum period. Other disorders such as kidney disease from heavy metal poisoning could result with high MUN levels, but clinical signs may be observed initially.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — One-hundred head of heifers and cows, many of them bred and owned by the exhibitors, were shown in the Junior Beef Breeding show. Winners in five breeds were named Wednesday morning.

In the Angus division Kile Rooker showed WLC Rita to the championship. Kile is from Uniontown in Fayette County.

The reserve grand champion Angus, CS Princess 524E, was shown by Curt Stockdale, Dayton, Armstrong County.

The Pennsylvania Angus Association named the 1996 Outstanding Boy and Outstanding Girl at the show. Bree Taggart from Waynesburg, in Green County, and Brad Linton, Kirkwood, in Lancaster County are the winners.

In the Charolais breed, Jesse Rothenhoefer, Jr., York Springs, Adams County, had the only entry to become the winner of the grand champion award.

Ladonna Miller, Bedford, Bedford County, had the grand champion Limousin. The winner, Lady Ebony, is a spring calf.

The reserve grand champion Limousin was shown by Jon Harnish, Lebanon, Lebanon County.

In the Polled Hereford show, Curt Stockdale, Dayton, Armstrong County had the grand champion with CS Reba 93, a spring yearling.

Morgan Firestine, Womelsdorf, Berks County, had the reserve grand champion.

In the Simmental show, Keith Carlisle, Claysville, Washington County, had the grand champion with CS Sweet Success. The winner is a spring yearling.

Reserve grand champion Simmental was shown by Raymond Stough, Spring Grove, York County.

Gov. Ridge Given Tour, Officially Opens Farm Show

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge and his two children, Lesley, 9, and Tommy, 8, toured the Farm Show last Saturday morning, greeting farmers and urban visitors in the process of making the 80th Pennsylvania Farm Show the largest indoor agriculture exposition in the country. The governor seemed to be seeing the show through the eyes of his kids, stopping with them to feel the wool of a freshly sheered sheep or to watch how a cow is milked.

This year the public was not restricted in the areas the governor toured so many people who happened to be along the way had the chance to greet the governor. At the end of the tour, a stylish team of Percherons, driven by Alfred and Donna Revenolt, Turbotville, Northumberland, provided the dramatic entrance to the large arena where the governor greeted the large crowd that had gathered for the youth rodeo, and officially opened the Farm Show.

"Although primitive in history, agribusiness has grown far beyond its humble beginnings in Pennsylvania," Ridge said. "It is our Commonwealth's number one industry—a job creator, a food provider, and a world leader in production, innovation and growth.

"No matter where you wander in this Farm Show Complex—every exhibit stands testament to the tremendous technological change and the ingenuity that has made Pennsylvania number one," Ridge said.

Saturday was also International Day at the show and representatives from 33 countries were asked to stand to be recognized by the crowd that packed the arena. The invitation to foreign trade representatives was part of the Pennsylvania Department of Agricul-

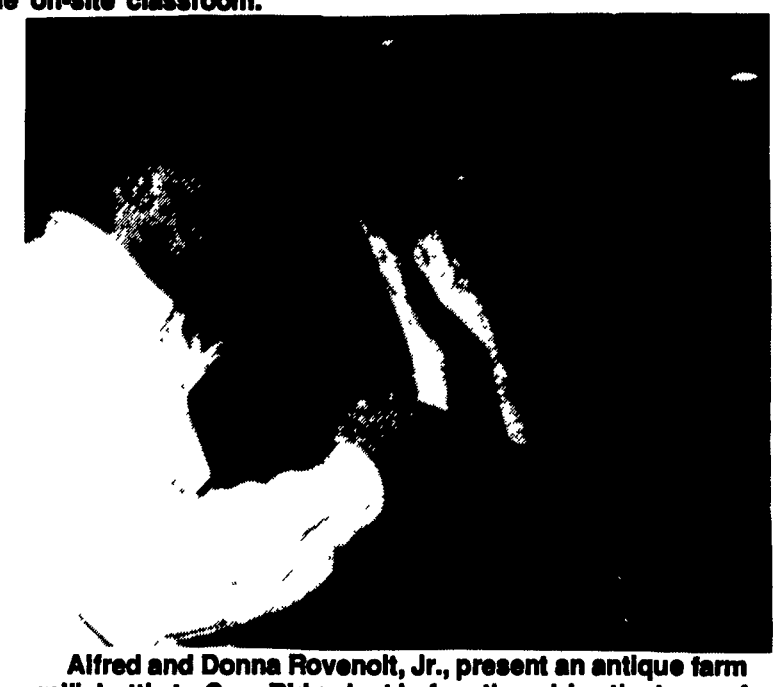
Pennsylvania's first family meets with Melanie Snyder, Clarion/Venago County dairy princess, while on tour of the dairy barns.

Gov. Ridge, left, and his two children, Lesley and Tommy, get a chance to feel live cowhide. Ag Secretary Charles Broslus, rear, and Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show Commissioner, helps with the on-site classroom.

The sheep's coat of wool is soft to the touch as David Harpster, Boalsburg, right, gives the kids (and the governor) a demonstration on the fine art of sheep husbandry.



Alfred and Donna Rovenolt, Jr., present an antique farm milk bottle to Gov. Ridge just before they drive the team of Percherons that transport the official party into the large arena for the opening ceremony.

ture and the Ridge Adminstration to expand markets for the state's agriculture industry.

Later in the week, Gov. Ridge came back to the show to present the supreme champion award in the dairy show. This was the first time anyone could remember that a Pennsylvania governor had come back to the show after the initial visit on opening day.

The official party meets with Dale Maulfair and family from Lebanon County as Polly, classified EX90, stands ready to show how a cow is milked.

"That's a milking machine! The cow stands around all day waiting for this. She has nothing else better to do."

Bt Corn Hybrids Control European Corn Borers

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Broken stalks, dropped ears and smaller-than-normal kernels cost. Midwestern corn producers hundreds of millions of dollars in lost yields during 1995.

Jack Bernens, Northrup King Co. corn product manager, said unusually high populations of both first- and second-generation European corn borers were partially to blame.

But next year, the devastating insects may bite off more than they can chew.

New Northrup King corn hybrids with resistance to all generations of European corn borer are expected to be available in 1996, pending EPA approval. These plants contain a gene from Bacillus thuringiensis, commonly known as Bt, a naturally occurring soil bacterium. The gene causes the plant to produce a protein in its leaves which controls European corn borers, but is harmless to beneficial insects and other species, including humans.

According to Bernens, most farmers don't realize how much damage is caused by the corn borer. An infestation of only one borer per corn plant can reduce yields by nearly 5 percent, a loss that can easily translate into more than $15 per acre in lost income.

In 1995, many farmers saw infestations of three or more corn borers per plant — a level that can cost producers more than $50 per acre. Bernens pointed out that hybrids with built-in borer protection not only halt those yield losses but also save farmers an additional $8-to-$20 per acre in insecticide costs.

Nubian Named Queen Of The Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "These are the best champions competing for Queen of the Fair," said Paul Kempe, who judged the 65 goats at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Thursday.

The select doe chosen for the honor was a Nubian owned by Helen Snyder of Newport. "Angelia" has won "best of show" six times at other shows but it's the first time for the honor at the Pa. Farm Show.

The 4-year-old was homebred on Snyder's Newport farm, where the family raises 40 to 45 head soon to expand through reproduction to 100.

Kempe chose the Nubian for its overall general appearance and strong udder attachment.

The Nubian has been classified excellent and was named All American 3-year-old in national competition. The doe milks 2,500 pounds now but last year reached 2,700 pounds.

Crystal Kloiber of Bath showed the champion LaManche. "Chelsea" the homebred permanent champion from Peach Holly Farm.

In Crystal's nine years of showing, Chelsea is her first permanent champion.

The champion Sannen was noted for its dairyness and tremendous body capacity by Judge Kempe.

It's by favorite goat from my herd of 24," said Jamie Harpster, who owns the champion Sannen named Peaches, which won the same title two years ago.

Jamie purchased Peaches five years ago to add to her Pine Hollow Farm herd in Pa. Furnace. Jamie lives on a dairy farm and plans to start shipping goat milk in the spring.

Dr. Judy Jaxtheimer of Neelyton showed the champion recorded grade. The LaMancha recorded grade is Penshire Jasmine, a 3-year-old homebred. Her older sister was a former champion. "The family line gave me a champion here every year in recorded grades but one," Jaxtheimer said.

A veterinarian in Huntingdon County, Jaxtheimer said that she started raising goats about eight years ago when one of her clients gave her one.

"I didn't think I would stay with it (goats) but it's like an addiction. Goats are so personable, easy to get along with, and cheaper than a psychiatrist," Jaxtheimer said.

She grins and bears the snubs from many of her dairy farmer clients who joke about her raising goats.

"I'm really serious about type and producing milk in my goats," she said. "My dream is to have a 2,940 pound milker."

She's close to that record with one of her goats that milked 2,940 pounds.

"The secret is in the breeding and nutrition management," she said.

Only one third of the usual number of goats showed up for competition on Thursday, but judge Paul Kempe said, "Despite the smaller numbers, the quality is good. Those who made it should be commended for coming. It takes a lot to sustain a farm and do the extra work to get here."

Judge Paul Kempe congratulates Helen Snyder who holds the Nubian selected as "Best of Show," in goat competition.

Jamie Harpster shows the champion Saanen, which was also champion of the breed two years ago at Farm Show competition.

Dr. Judy Jaxtheimer shows Penshire Jasmine selected as champion in the recorded grades.

Those people who work behind the scenes to make the goat show a success are, clockwise starting at front center, Amy Church, York Co. extension agent; Carol Schurman, Indiana Co. extension agent; Dan Overdorff, Wayne Co. Extenstion agent; Ellen Williams, 4-H volunteer; Craig Williams, Tioga Co. extension agent; and Gene Schurman, Indiana Co. extension agent.

It's a family affair for the Snyder family who own the grand champion Nubian also selected as "Best of the Show." Helen said she began raising goats 13 years ago. She attended Farm Show competition that year and that evening delivered her daughter Cassy, who now shows goats and celebrates her birthday every year during Farm Show week. Cassy won junior grand championship titles in Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Delaware. Husband Curt doesn't show but helps out by switching goats. A son Daniel, 18, also shows but is now stationed in Bosnia.

Vegetable Conference

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.)—More than 800 persons, mostly vegetable growers from throughout Pennsylvania, are expected to gather at the Hershey Lodge and Conference Center for the 1996 Pennsylvania Vegetable Conference and Trade Show Jan. 30-Feb. 1.

The program this year will feature four special sessions, one devoted to tillage and cover crops, one to specialty vegetables, another to soil testing and plant analysis, and finally, one devoted to research sponsored by PVGA and the Marketing and Research Program.

In addition, a workshop devoted to fumigation topics will be offered the last day, concurrent with a special direct marketing short course.

Sessions on processing vegetables, general vegetables, bedding plants, and small fruits will also be offered. The conference will be held concurrently with the 137th Annual Meeting of the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, the state fruit growers association. In all, more than 1,600 persons are expected to attend the three-day meetings. More than 25 pesticide applicator update training credits are available to growers attending the educational sessions.

More than 100 exhibitors will display the latest in equipment, supplies, pesticides and varieties for both fruit and vegetable growers at the trade show. These commercial exhibits will be open all three days during the educational sessions and during the lunch hour to allow growers to meet with the sales representatives.

Concurrent sessions on Jan. 30 will cover processing vegetables, tillage and cover crops, specialty vegetables, and soil testing/plant analysis plus monitoring sweet corn insect pests. On Jan. 31, concurrent sessions on bedding plants and funded vegetable research will be held in the morning followed in the afternoon by sessions on bedding plants, general vegetables, and small fruit cultivatrs and marketing. Small fruit sessions plus an all-day direct marketing short course and fumigation workshop will be offered that last day.

The all-day short course on direct marketing will feature Robert Matarazzo, a vegetable grower, roadside marketer, and marketing consultant from New Jersey, and James Lincoln, extension marketing agent from Michigan.

Matarazzo will speak on customer service, writing news releases, and hosting special events. Lincoln will host a pictorial tour of farm markets around the country and the special events they use to draw customers.

A panel of four Pennsylvania marketers will discuss how they use customer service and special events to draw and keep their customers. An extra registration fee is required for the short course.

The processing tomato growers with the highest yields for the 1995 season will be honored at the annual Tomato Awards Luncheon on the opening day, Jan. 30.

The Vegetable Conference is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association in cooperation with The Pennsylvania State University's College of Agricultural Sciences. For more information on the program and registration, contact the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, RR 1 Box 392, Northumberland, PA 17857-9723, (717) 473-8468.

FOCUS

MUN levels should be interpreted from groups of cows and not individual cows because of individual variation. Ten percent of a feeding group or a lactation group might be sufficient to test, but with the automated means of testing at the DHIA laboratories, it might be more economical to do the whole herd at the regular test. The automated MUN test does not measure MUN directly, but calculates it after fat percentage, protein percentage, and citrate levels are known. The best samples should be taken during milking and should not include strippings.

What levels of protein should be fed to dairy cattle to prevent elevated MUN levels and their consequences?

The following feeding guidelines are from the 1995 Dairy Reference manual (NRAES-63):

	Stage of Lactation
	Early	Mid	Late
CP, % DM	17-18	16-17	15-16
Sol Protein	30-34	32-36	32-38
DIP, % CP	62-66	62-66	62-66
UIP, % CP	34-38	34-38	34-38
NSC, % DM	32-38	32-38	32-38

MUN levels can be used as a tool to evaluate herd health and feeding management in addition to other diagnostic tools such as herd record, ration evaluation, feed delivery evaluation, etc. If you are interested in the MUN testing program, call PA DHIA or talk to your local Technician.

Classic Recipe Tops Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A basic apple pie topped those made with unusual ingredients such as cranberries, cheese, caramel, nuts, and cinnamon candies.

"Good apples, that's the secret. I use green tart apples," Pamela Paulsell of Chadds Ford said of the classic pie she entered in the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest held annually at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

The pie was one of 64 entries. Each entry needs to qualify for state competition by placing first in a local fair. Pamela's pie had won first prize at the Unionville Community Fair in Chester County.

Three years ago, Pamela had entered the contest by using the same recipe, which made it to the finalist stage but was not chosen as a winner.

Although pleased with the $100 prize, the real reward came when Pamela's mother, who, according to Pamela bakes wonderful apple pies, pronouced her daughter's pie "good."

Pamela's two adult daughters also vie for the apple pie contest at the Unionville Fair.

"We keep competing, but we don't have a chance against mother," daughter Hillary said.

Second place went to Ruth Barron of Mt. Pleasant. Her Apple Cheddar Pie previously qualified at the Bullskin Township Fair. It was the third time that Ruth qualified for state competition, but the first time for a top placing. Each time she uses a totally different recipe for her entry.

"I like experiementing and Peter (her husband) likes tasting them," Ruth said of her method for selecting a recipe.

Pete had to eat six pies the week of competition and Ruth made four more pies to select the best appearing one for entry on the day of the contest.

"My husband hade to drag me to my first fair. Now we are big fair goers," Ruth said.

Third place went to Roger Deetscreek of Muncy in Lycoming County. His Hot Shot Apple Pie uses cinnamon candies.

"The secret is the crust," said Roger who perfected his crust technique when he baked professionally for 10 years. He now bakes for pleasure, but confesses his 16- and 21-year-old daughters get tired of eating his experiments.

This was Roger's second year for qualifying for .state competition.

Here are the top three recipes.

THE CLASSIC APPLE PIE
First Place
Pamela Paulsell

Pie Filling:
6 cups pared and thinly sliced tart apples
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup light brown sugar
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Dash salt
3 tablespoons butter

Sprinkle apples with lemon juice. Mix dry ingredients and blend in the butter. Toss over apples while preparing the crust. Pie crust for two-crust 9-inch pie plate:
2 cups unbleached flour
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup plus 2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup cold water (additional if needed)

Blend dry ingredients and shortening. Slowly add only enough water to mix in dry ingredients for easy handling. Split the dough and roll out the bottom crust. Add the apple filling. Roll out the second crust and place over top. Crimp and seal. Brush lightly with milk and bake at 425 degrees in a preheated oven for 50-60 minutes. Protect edges of pie crust with foil during first 30 minutes.

Pamela Paulsell, center, holds the winning apple pie. Her daughter Hillary and another daughter not in attendance compete against their mother in the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest, but so far haven't been able to surpass their mother's baking expertise. Husband Ken enjoys taste-testing the pies.

APPLE STREUSEL MINCE PIE WITH CHEDDER CRUST
Second Place
Ruth Barron

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
5-6 tablespoons ice water

Filling:
5 cups sliced, peeled apples
1 cup apple cider
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Streusel:
½ jar None Such mincemeat
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
⅓ cup butter
¼ cup chopped nuts
½ cup flour

Glaze:
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water

Crust: Place flour, cheese, and salt in food processor. Process 15 seconds: Remove. Place in bowl, add shortening and water. Mix until dough forms ball. Divide in half. Use half for bottom crust.

Filling: Combine apples, cider, and sugar in large saucepan. Cook until mixture comes to boil. Reduce heat, combine cornstarch and 2 tablespoons water. Stir into apples. Cook until mixture comes to boil. Remove from heat. Stir in butter. Spoon into unbaked pie crust.

Streusel: Top with mincemeat in medium bowl. Combine half cup flour, brown sugar, and cut in cold butter until crumbly. Add nuts. Sprinkle over mincemeat. Garnish top with cut out designs from remaining half of dough.

Glaze: Beat egg yolk with 1 tablespoon water. Brush glaze on designs and crust. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes in lower half of oven. Reduce heat to 375 degrees. Bake 40 minutes or longer until golden brown.

Brother Improves Sister's Recipe To Bake Best Of The Best Brownies

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Twelve-year-old Travis Ulrich bakes the best cocoa brownie bars in the state — even better than his sister.

Nevertheless, he owes at least part of his success to his sister, Heather. She took third place with her Chewey Chocolate Delight several years ago at the annual Greatest Cookie Contest held at the state Farm Show .

This year, Travis improvised his sister's recipe, and, after hours of deliberation, the judges proclaimed his bars the best of the 66 entries, which had reached state competition after topping 1,219 entries at 107 county fairs.

The win entitles Travis to a weekend for four at the Hershy Resort and Conference Center in Hershey. Travis said Heather will get to go along with his parents, Larry and Glenda Ulrich of East Earl.

Before Travis could compete at the state competition, he needed to win at the local level. In September, he wowed judges with his Chewey Chocolate Delight at New Holland Fair, which qualified him for state competition.

A sixth grader at Blue Ball Elementary School, Travis said that some of his classmates got a taste of his creation. After this win, he suspects his friends will be clamouring for more.

Second-place went to Sandy Clark, daughter of Terry and Dale Clark of Harvey's Lake. The 14-year-old is an eighth grader at Tunakhannock School. She likes to bake and won her first round of competition at the Wyoming County Fair.

Third place went to Jacob Baughman, Elliotsburg. Jacob, who won the Perry County Fair competition, was not at the state contest when the winners were announced.

Here are the top three recipes selected by judges Rick Kralj, Mercer Co.; Betty Heimback, home economist; Sue Samson, Cumberland Co. caterer; Chris Fiches, Bucks Co., and Fred Trump, fair president of Bloomsburg Fair.

CHEWEY CHOCOLATE DELIGHT
First Place
P. Travis Ulrich

Combine in large bowl and set aside:
2 cups brown sugar
3 cups cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
4 tablespoons Hershey's cocoa

Combine and melt in double boiler over low heat until smooth:
⅓ cup evaporated milk
14-ounces caramels

Add to dry mixture and mix well:
½ cup melted margarine
⅓ cup evaporated milk

Press half of cake mixture into bottom of greased 13x9-inch pan. Bake 6 minutes at 350 degrees. Sprinkle over baked crust:
1 cup chopped walnuts
6-ounces Hershey's peanut butter chips

Top with caramel mixture spreading to edge of pan. Top with tablespoonfuls of remaining cake mix and press gently into caramel. Sprinkle with ½ cup nuts. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes two dozen bars.

(Turn to Page B3)

Executive Dep. Sec. Walt Peechatka and Pa. Fair Queen Jennifer Randall congratulate Travis for baking the best brownies in the state.

Homestead Notes

Brother Improves Sister's Recipe To Bake Best Of The Best Brownies

Travis Ulrich took first-place with his Chewey Chocolate Delight, a recipe that he improvised after his sister won a third-place ribbon at the same contest several years ago. With Travis are his parents Larry and Glenda and sister Heather.

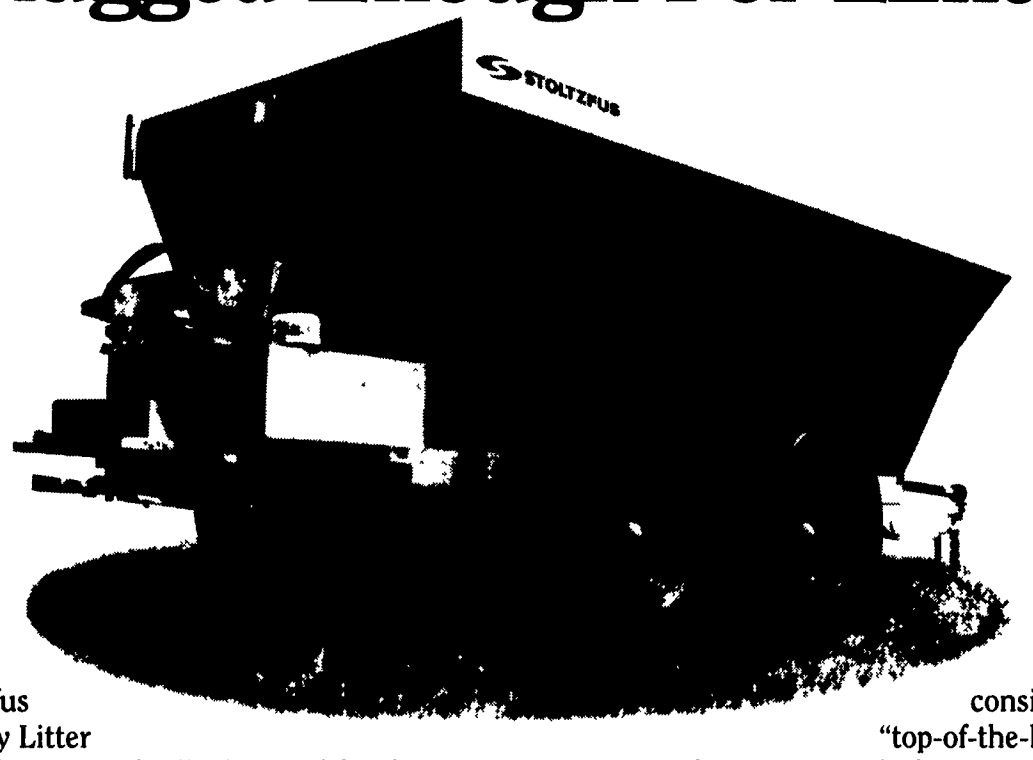
BROWNIES
Second Place
Sandy Clark

In pan, melt:
2 sticks margarine
Add:
6 tablespoons cocoa
Cool until lukewarm. Add:
4 well-beaten eggs
2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup flour
1 cup chopped nuts (optional)
Pour mixture into lightly greased 9x13-inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 30-40 minutes.
Creamy Brownie Frosting:
Cream together:
6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons cocoa
2 tablespoons corn syrup or honey
1 teaspoon vanilla
Add:
2 cups confectioners' sugar
2-4 tablespoons milk
Beat and spread over cooled brownies.

GRANDMA'S FILLED CHOCOLATE YUM YUMS
Third Place
Jacob Baughman

½ cup Hershey's cocoa
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk
2 eggs
1 cup shortening, softened
2 cups rolled oats
½ cup coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package chocolate bits
Combine ingredients. Make 1-inch balls, flatten and fill with filling below and cover with 1-inch ball of cookie dough. Press edges together. Bake at 350 degrees for 8-9 minutes.
Filling:
1 cup confectioners' sugar
½ cup creamy peanut butter
3 tablespoons butter, softened
In mixing bowl, combine sugar, peanut butter, and butter; mix well. Shape into ¼ -inch balls and place on unbaked cookie.

The One Spreader Big Enough For Poultry Litter, Rugged Enough For Lime.



The Stoltzfus Poultry Litter Spreader is specifically designed for the demands of this challenging job. The 20 foot hopper holds a whopping 400 cubic foot load, meaning fewer trips for you. The big 30-inch drag chain moves large volumes of litter fast. And the dual hydraulic spinners spread a wide, uniform pattern up to 40 feet wide.

But its real beauty may be its versatility. Now you can spread fertilizer, stockpiled lime, compost, poultry litter and more, all with one machine.

Long considered "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders, many Stoltzfus Spreaders are still in use after 20 years. That makes a Stoltzfus Spreader preferred not only for quality and performance, but also for terrific economy in the long run.

Sure you can settle for buying on initial price alone. But with a Stoltzfus Spreader you won't be shopping for another spreader just a couple years down the line.

Crust:
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup vegetable shortening
¼ cup butter
1 large egg
1 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons water

Sift flour, blend in shortening and butter until crumbs are the size of peas. Blend egg, salt, and water together. Mix the liquid into crumb mixture until the liquid is totally incorported.

Pecan filling:
1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
4 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
3 tablespoons melted margarine
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup pecans

Beat eggs. Add sugar, salt, flour, and margarine. Mix well. Add vanilla and corn syrup. Mix thoroughly and add nuts. Fill pie shell half way with pecan filling. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Hot shot apple filling:
4 cups peeled and sliced McIntosh apples
⅓ cup granulated sugar
4 ounces melted cinnamon candies
1½ tablespoon minute tapioca
½ cup chopped pecans

Bring to a boil for approximately 5 minutes

Finishing touch:

Cover pecan filling after it is baked with hot shot apple filling. Lattice the top of the filling with pie crust. Bake at 425 degrees for 20 minutes.

Cool pie and glaze with confectioners' sugar mixture.

Roger Deetscreek accepts third prize in the apple pie contest from Executive Dep. Sec. Walt Peechatka.

Building Strong Step Families

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — In an effort to help stepfamilies build strong relationships and a happy family life, Penn State Cooperative Extension of Bradford County is offering a seven-part educational letter series entitled Building Strong Stepfamilies. Interested persons are invited to request the letters.

Each of the letters in the series is four pages long and includes a list of resources for additional reading. The series was written by Judith J. Winckler, extension agent with Cornell Cooperative Extension of Broome County. Topics addressed in the letters include:

1. Stepfamily Myths and Fantasies: Cinderella or the Brady Bunch
2. Building a Strong Foundation: The Couple Relationship
3. Instant Family: The Child's View
4. Instant Family: From the Adult's View
5. Financial and Legal Issues
6. Beyond the Front Door: Significant Others in Stepfamily Life
7. Building Our Tomorrows: Celebrations, Traditions, and History

The series will be distributed from the Extension Office, one issue per week, beginning the first week of February. Cost is $3 per set. To receive the letters send name and address plus fee to Bradford County Extension, P.O. Box 69, Towanda, PA 18848, by January 19. Checks made payable to Bradford County Extension.

For additional information contact Cathy Guffey at the Extension Office, (717) 265-2896.

Every smart shopper realizes that when buying food, wholesomeness—lack of foreign materials and absence of mold—is of primary importance. However, millions of dollars spent on grains, edible seeds and processed foods are lost each year because proper home storage techniques have been overlooked. After you obtain a high quality product, preserve its nutrition and palatability by considering the following points before you place it on the shelf.

•Rotation: A "first in/first out" rotation system reduces the chance of insect, rodent, or chemical spoilage.

•Air: Most foods contain some fat. Fat oxidizes when in contact with air, producing rancid odors and flavors. As a result, the nutritional value decreases, and the product may become slightly toxic. To slow the development of rancidity, fill storage containers, make them as airtight as possible and store them in a dark, cool place.

•Light: Sunlight bleaches food stored in clear packages, destroying the food's pigments, flavor, and texture. It can cause vitamins to lose their activity. Never store foods packaged in clear containers in a sunlit area, even if the sunlight hits them for only a few minutes a day.

•Heat: Heat speeds up chemical reactions that destroy color, flavor, texture, and nutritional value in store foods. Shady, indoor, or underground storage reduces heat influence. Refrigeration is one of the easiest and best methods of food preservation.

•Moisture: A certain amount of moisture helps maintain the quality of many foods, but an increase in moisture facilitates insect, mold, and bacteria growth in packaged foods. A dry storage place and proper packaging will keep the right amount of moisture in and excess moisture out.

•Storage containers: The best containers are made of glass, metal or rigid plastic. Containers should retain natural moisture and food colors while keeping out insects, rodents, mold, dust, air, and light. Avoid wooden or paper containers where moisture is a problem. Use metal containers only in dry areas and store glass containers where they will be safe from breakage. Also remember that rodents and insects can penetrate wood, cardboard, and thin plastic.

Common household foods such as grains, cereals, packaged mixes, cookies, pasta, dried fruits and spices, red pepper, paprika and chili powder are highly attractive to insects and invite insect infestation. To ensure that these foods remain insect-free, consider the following measures before storing them in your home.

•Inspect food before you buy. If you find evidence of insects, take the product to the grocer. This will prevent infestation of other packages.

•Buy quantities that can be used quickly, unless planning to repackage or freeze.

•Transfer foods to glass or metal containers that can't be penetrated by insects. Jars with screw-on lids are best.

•Clean all grains and edible seeds to remove dust and broken seeds. Fanning or sieving will remove most foreign materials. Store these foods in airtight containers, place in a cool, dry place and check periodically.

•Keep storage and counter areas clean. Do not allow food particles to accumulate on shelves or in cracks. Vacuum storage area with a crevice tool that reaches into cracks. If this is not possible, use a brush or cloth. Do not use soap and water. This will wash food particles into crevices and cracks where they can develop mold.

•Clean under stoves, refrigerator and other large appliances regularly.

•Check dog, cat and bird food regularly. These products may contain insects that will attract others into your home.

Eat To Your Health

After the holidays, people often make a conscious choice to try to lose weight. This often means eating less or eating differently.

The supermarket is full of products labeled low-fat or reduced-fat, but it is possible to choose these items and still not loose weight.

Many low-fat foods do not contain fewer calories, because more sugar is added to enhance taste and texture. It's true that it does help to cut down on fat because a gram of fat contains 9 calories compared with 4 calories in a gram of carbohydrates or protein.

Nonetheless eating too many carbohydrates won't help you much. Whenever you eat a carbohydrate, the body breaks it down into stuff it can use. Once the sugars are broken down, the excess is converted into fat and stored.

To lose weight, you need to eat fewer calories that you use for energy no matter if they come from carbohydrates, protein or fat.

Remember, too, some fat is important in a good diet program. People need fat for energy and for providing the vitamins that are soluble only in fat, including A, D, E, and K.

Make healthful choices in your diet. Follow the USDA Food Pyramid Guidelines. Eat plenty of fruits, vegetables, grains, and cereals — but careful not to add too much fat when preparing these foods.

Applesauce and apple juice are excellent fat substitutes in making cakes, cookies, muffins, and other baked goods. Substituting applesauce will dramatically reduce the fat and caloric levels, reduce the need for sugar and add flavor and natural sweetness.

Cakes made with butter and other solid shortening get their volume from the air that is incorporated into the batter when the fat is creamed with the sugar. Eliminating fat means that the cake will become more compact. To remedy this, beat egg whites and fold them into the cake batter.

In recipes that have totally eliminated fat, it is a good idea to substitute a whole grain flour for at least one-third to one-half of the refined flour used in the recipe. You may also use wheat bran, oat bran or oats to replace part of the flour. The fiber in these ingredients will help maintain a pleasing texture in your baked goods.

GARDEN VEGGIES ITALIAN STYLE

1 onion, chopped
1 squash, diced yellow or zucchini or eggplant, peeled
1 tomato, diced
1 green pepper, chopped
Pinch of oregano or Italian seasoning
8-ounce can tomato sauce
½ cup skim mozzarella cheese, shredded

Combine vegetables in a baking dish. Sprinkle with oregano. Pour on the tomato sauce. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Top with cheese and bake another 4 to 5 minutes until cheese is melted.

TOTE-ALONG DRESSING

12-ounces low-sodium tomato juice
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
1½ teaspoons arrowroot powder
¼ teaspoon granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper

Combine all ingredients in screw-top jar; shake to blend. Pour into small saucepan and cook over medium heat, stirring. Bring to a boil and continue cooking, stirring, 1-2 minutes or until slightly thickened. Allow to cool. Return to jar and keep refrigerated. Makes 20 1-tablespoon servings.

EMU ESPECIAL

4 emu prime steaks
2 tablespoons butter
3-ounces sliced mushrooms
¼ cup thinly sliced green onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1 clove garlic minced

In skillet, cook emu steaks in butter over medium heat to desired doneness (be careful not to overcook, emu is very lean), turning once. Transfer to platter; keep warm. In same skillet, combine mushrooms, green onion, lemon juice, salt, basil, and garlic. Heat and stir until sauce is bubbly; serve with steaks. Makes 4.

Contributor writes that emu meat is a red meat that is very low in fat. Many health conscious people are seeking this alternative red meat.

SPINACH AND ORANGE SALAD

4 cups fresh, trimmed, washed spinach
2 oranges, peeled and sectioned
½ cup sliced onions (optional)
¼ cup French dressing, reduced calorie

Wash and drain spinach thoroughly. Tear into small pieces and combine with the oranges and onion slices. Pour the French dressing over the ingredients and mix well. Chill for 1 to 2 hours.

NO-SALT HERB BLEND
Makes 1 cup

4 tablespoons dried oregano
4 tablespoons onion powder
4 teaspoons dried marjoram
4 teaspoons dried basil
4 teaspoons ground savory
4 teaspoons garlic powder
2 teaspoons dried thyme
2 teaspoons dried rosemary
1 teaspoon dried sage
1 teaspoon pepper

In a medium-sized bowl, combine all ingredients. Crush with the back of a spoon or transfer small amounts to a mortar and crush.

Store in a tightly covered container.

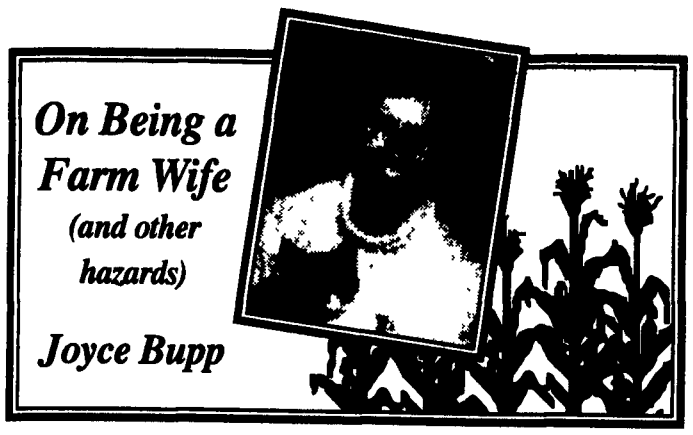
LAMB AND LENTIL SOUP

1½ pounds boneless lamb meat, trimmed of excess fat and cut into small cubes
2 tablespoons olive oil
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon sweet paprika
2 bay leaves
1 piece lemon peel, about ½ -inch wide and 2 inches long
⅛ to¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
8 cups water
1¼ cups dried lentils
1 yellow onion, peeled and diced
1 large carrot, peeled and cut, diced
¾ cup fresh cilantro
Salt and freshly ground pepper

In a soup pot, combine lamb, olive oil, cumin, paprika, bay leaves, lemon peel, red pepper flakes, and 2 cups of the water. Bring to boil, reduce heat to low, cover and simmer gently until the lamb is tender, 1½ to 2 hours.

Add remaining 6 cups water, the lentils, onion, and carrot, and simmer, uncovered, over low heat until the lentils are just tender, 20-30 minutes. Discard the bay leave and lemon peel. Stir in the cilantro, salt, and pepper to taste. Serve immediately.



Been GLUPPED lately?

You know. Glup! Gosh-awful, long-lasting ugly precipitation.

It's been a glup winter. Actually, it was a glup fall (looking back the early part of last summer was pretty gluppy too. At least for those areas where bouts of precipitation flooded houses, cars, and basements).

But, back to the glup winter.

Snow is not glup. Snow is pretty. Snow is somewhat exciting. Snow is also a little bit uplifting of our spirits because of its beauty.

Snow you can shovel. Snow you can plow. Snow has some degree of traction.

Snow is a necessary raw material for snowmen and for making angels created by laying in the fluffy white stuff and moving your arms and legs back and forth. Snow can be further utilized for sledding, skiing, powering toboggans, doing battle with snowballs and as a terrific excuse for just looking out the windows and enjoying the birds.

Glup on the other hand is ominous. Glup is dangerous. Glup is depressing. Glup is a raw material for hassles and headaches.

Glup like snow begins somewhere in the upper atmosphere as moisture droplets but on the way down due to generally warmer—or whacko—weather conditions the droplets take on a devilish twist. They may then freeze onto every blessed surface with which they come in contact like power lines, telephone installations, vehicle doors, and the front step outside your house.

Or, the droplets may transform into hard little frozen pellets which in turn bounce off your head and sting your face as you head toward the barn to milk.

At its peak efficiency, glup combines all the above. Layering into geological deposits that pile up on every exposed surface around the farmstead and through repeated applications ultimately transform into arguebly winter's longest lasting outdoor nasty stuff.

Glup ice!

As owners of an abundance of glup ice, we do admit that it has it's positive aspects. For instance, glup ice makes one slow down and take in the scenery a bit more — especially important if you value unbroken bones.

Glup ice adds a dimension of thrilling suspense to ordinary days of working around the farmstead constructed on a natural slope. Will the tractor slide into the feed cart when they bring the next bucket loader of silage? Will the slight warming effect of noonday sunshine at the corner of the calf barn refreeze at sunset to glassy slickness?

How far down the hill balancing a 50 pound bag of calf feed can a farm wife slide without loosing her balance — and cushioning the fall for the bag?

It offers challenges like prying loose the pickup and cattle trailer after they settled into the ice packs behind the barn. Or landscaping opportunities like the construction of woodstove ash walking paths from the calf barn to the heifer pen to the dairy barn to the feed storage area, to say nothing of the free recreational facilities provided by our very own all-natural backyard shaped ice skating rink — with no need for skates even.

With winter just in its early stages, glup offers still another opportunity of the commodity investment type.

Buy SALT!

Editor's note: This column was written before the big blizzard. Joyce reports, "Our glup has been buried under three feet of snow is not expected to reappear until spring."

Dairy Council Launches Nutrition Education Program

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Building on its mission to increase positive dairy attitudes in children, Dairy Council is introducing its newest nutrition education program, Chef Combo's Fantastic Adventures in Tasting and Nutrition. The program was recently previewed by area educators and will be included in participating preschool and kindergarten curriculums beginning in early 1996.

Chef Combo targets 4- and 5-year-old students with innovative activities that promote tasting and appreciating new foods. Nutrition education research reveals that around the ages of 4 and 5, children begin to develop their adult food preferences. Given encouragement and age-appropriate instruction — both found in Chef Combo's extensive lesson plan — a child can be positively influenced to develop a taste for a variety of nutritious foods.

Food Preferences Formed Early

"It is never too early to acquaint youngsters with new tastes and textures," explains Jan Stanton, Dairy Council's executive director. "By expanding a child's willingness to try new foods, including less familiar foods like cottage cheese, this program can positively influence eating habits for a lifetime."

The preschool market is the fastest growing market in education. In the tri-state region, there are 4,600 preschools serving approximately 500,000 children.

Chef Combo teaches kids about good nutrition.

ANSWER — Karen Moyer, Portage, wanted a recipe for cherry pie filling using frozen cherries. Thanks to Mary Snyder, for sending a recipe that she writes may be used by substituting other fruits for the cherries.

Cherry Pie Filling

1 quart frozen sour cherries
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar

Combine cornstarch and sugar to liquid of cherries to make 1 cup. Bring to boil and add cherries until thickened.

1 teaspoon lemon juice or almond extract may be added to enhance flavor.

Pour cherry filling into unbaked pie shell.

For crumb topping: combine until blended:
¾ cup flour
½ cup sugar
¼ cup shortening

Sprinkle crumbs on top of cherries and bake pie in 425 degree oven for 20 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until crust is lightly browned.

ANSWER — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., sent a recipe for fried apples, which Mrs. Musser from Denver had requested.

Fried Apples

6 tart apples, peeled and sliced
1 tablespoon butter
⅓ cup sugar
¼ cup maple syrup

Melt butter in a skillet and add sliced apples. Sprinkle with sugar and syrup. Cover and saute until tender.

ANSWER — Joyce Utterback of Alderson, W.V. wanted a recipe for old-fashioned buckwheat cakes in which the batter needs to set overnight. Thanks to Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., for sending a recipe.

Orb Reed & Jim Van Metre's
Old Fashioned Buckwheat Cakes

Dissolve 1 cake compressed yeast in ½ cup lukewarm water

Add:
2 cups cold water

Sift together and stir in:
2 cups buckwheat flour
½ cup cornmeal
½ cup flour
1½ teaspoon salt

Beat vigorously until smooth. Cover and let stand overnight. In morning, stir in:
2 tablespoons brown sugar or molasses
¼ cup butter, melted, or vegetable oil
1 teaspoon baking soda dissolved in ½ cup hot water

Let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes and fry. Makes 36 4-inch pancakes. Refrigerates well.

ANSWER — Thanks to Ruth Boyd, Alburtis, for answering the request for Betty Farrell of Lindley, N.Y.

Chocolate Scotcheroos

1 cup sugar
1 cup light Karo
1 cup peanut butter
6 cups rice crispy cereal
6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate morsels
6 ounces butterscotch morsels

Combine sugar and syrup in 3-quart saucepan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring frequently until mixture begins to bubble. Remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter; mix well. Add rice crispies; stir until well blended. Press mixture into buttered 13x9-inch pan.

Melt together chocolate and butterscotch morsels over hot but not boiling water, stir until well blended. Remove from heat. Spread evenly over cereal mixture. Cook until firm. Cut into bars. Yields: 48 bars, 2x1-inches.

FRUITY ANGEL FOOD CAKE

4-ounce package vanilla pudding mix
2 cups skim or low-fat milk
8 ounces low-fat vanilla yogurt
1 angel food cake, cubed
2 cups ripe bananas, sliced
3 cups canned peaches, juice drained

In a mixing bowl, beat the pudding mix and milk until they are thick. Add yogurt and beat again. Cover and refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.

Put the cake cubes in the bottom of a 2½-quart glass bowl. Pour one cup of the refrigerated yogurt mixture over the cake cubes. Add one cup bananas and 1½ cups peaches. Pour the remaining yogurt mixture over this fruit. Top with the remaining bananas and peaches. Cover and put in the refrigerator for at least three hours before serving.

Makes 10 one cup servings.

MOCK SAUSAGE PATTIES

1 pound ground turkey or chicken
¼ cup salt-free seasoned bread crumbs
2 tablespoons low-sodium chicken broth
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
¼ teaspoon ground sage
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 large egg white

In medium-sized bowl, combine all ingredients, except egg white. Using hands, blend ingredients well. Gently beat egg white with a fork; add to mixture and incorporate with hands or large wooden spoon. Shape into 12 patties. Place on non-stick cookie sheet. Broil 3-4 inches from heat source 4-5 minutes or until light brown. Turn and broil additional 2-3 minutes, or until cooked through. Makes 6 servings.

Am. Cancer Society

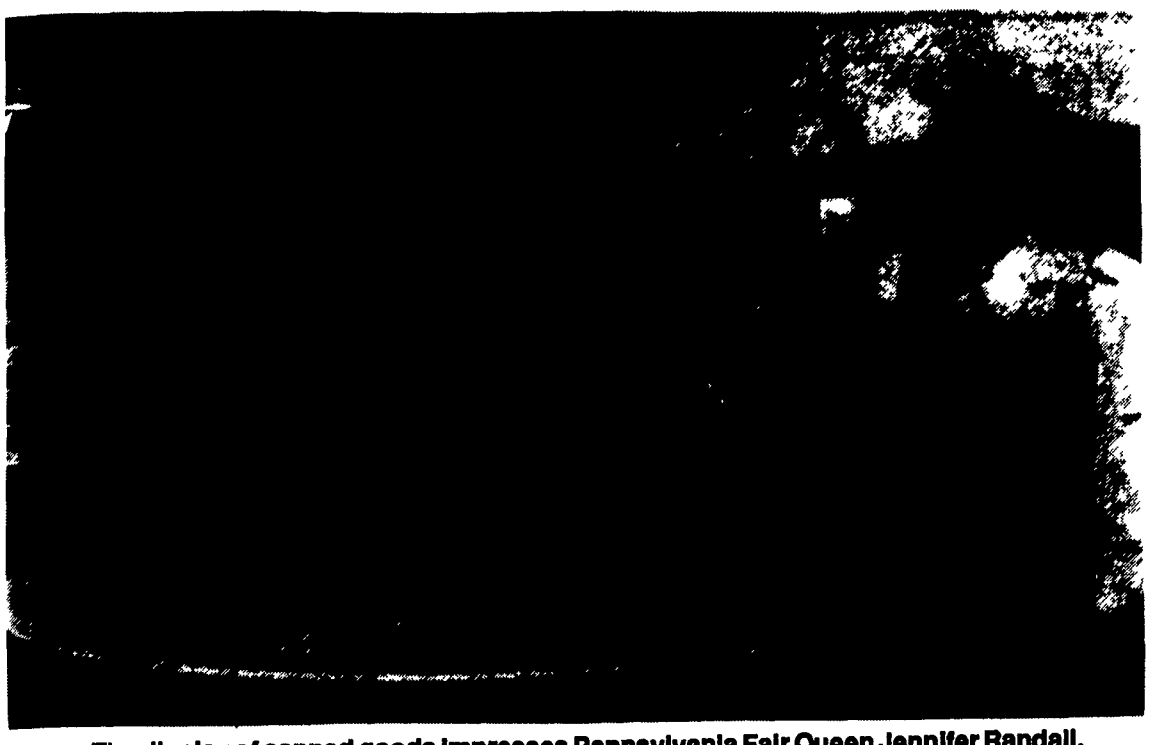
APPLESAUCE MAPLE MUFFINS

2 cups whole wheat flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1¼ cups unsweetened applesauce
½ cup maple syrup
2 egg whites
½ cup raisins or chopped walnuts

Combine the flour and baking powder, and stir to mix well. Add the applesauce, maple syrup, and egg whites, stir just until the dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in the raisins and walnuts.

Coat muffin cups with nonstick cooking spray, and fill ¾ full with the batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 16 to 18 minutes, or just until a wooden toothpick inserted in the center of a muffin comes out clean.

Remove the muffin tin from the oven, and allow it to sit for 5 minutes before removing the muffins. Serve warm or at room temperature. Yield: 12 muffins.



The display of canned goods impresses Pennsylvania Fair Queen Jennifer Randall, who is from Somerset County. As fair queen she travels to fairs across the state and is surprised and thrilled with the diversity at each one.

Meet Pennsylvania's Fair Queen

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Fair Queen Jennifer Randall grew up in Maine where she was fascinated with the ocean. She determined then to study marine biology so that she could research sharks, but her move to Pennsylvania and consequent reign as the state Fair Queen has changed all that.

"During my reign, I discovered that I like working with people," said the 19-year-old queen who is a sophmore at Elizabethtown College. She plans to switch her major from marine biology to teaching.

Jennifer said that her dad's job has required the family to move to many different states. Her dad Charles is a milk broker for Great Lakes Milk Co. Her mother Katherine and 15-year-old sister Kristen complete the family. Occasionally the family circle temporarily enlarges to include exchange students. The family has hosted two exchange students, one from France and another from Argentina.

Jennifer grew up participating in 4-H where she showed lambs and pigs. It seemed a natural progression to try out for Somerset County Fair Queen. After capturing that title, she competed for the state title. The 43 contestants were required to write an essay, give a speech, and interview with judges.

Jennifer thinks that her original speech influenced her win. She spoke on why people should come to her county fair. In the speech, she played the roles of an older gentleman, a young boy, a woman, and herself in giving each one's perspective of the fair's attractions.

In doing the presentation, Jennifer's experience in public speaking and in theater helped her.

As fair queen, Jennifer attended 10 fairs.

"I'm amazed at the diversity of the fairs. I met a lot of great people at each one," she said.

She would have liked to attend more fairs, but conflicts with college classes prevent her.

One of the highlights of her reign, Jennifer said, was meeting Gov. Ridge and addressing the Pennsylvania Senate and House of Representatives.

Experiences like these have greatly enhanced her speaking ability and confidence in speaking before crowds, Jennifer believes.

In a few weeks, Jennifer will crown the new Pennsylvania Fair Queen.

"It's been a great experience being the Fair Queen. I feel sad when I think of giving up the crown," she said.

Improve Your Health

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension is sponsoring two exciting nutrition classes focused on a workable weight-loss and maintenance program.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Debra Shull, Landisburg, wanted a recipe for making sharp cheese using goat's milk. Thanks to a Lehighton subscriber who suggests that Debra contact the New England Cheese Making Supply Co., Box 85 Main St., Ashfield, Ma. 01330, (413) 628-3808. The company sells kits for making different cheeses. One basic kit makes a variety of cheeses including cheddar, Gouda, Monterey Jack, cottage cheese, ricotta, buttermilk, etc. Even if Debra does not want to purchase the kit, the subscriber writes that she is sure they would give her information.

ANSWER — Carol Grove, Somerville, Va., wanted recipes for gluten-free diets suitable for the holidays. Sorry, these recipes arrived too late for Christmas, but I'm sure you'll enjoy them anyway. Thanks to Gladys Hassinger, McClure, for sending them. She recommends two cookbooks, "The Gluten-Free Gourmet," and "More From the Gluten-Free Gourmet," by Bette Hagman.

Orange Cornbread

2 cups corn flour
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
⅓ cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons grated orange peel

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Stir in milk, eggs, oil, and orange peel until smooth. Do not over beat.

Pour into greased 9x9x2-inch baking pan. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Stuffs 12-14 pound turkey.

Orange Cornbread Stuffing

1 recipe orange cornbread
1 medium onion
½ cup sliced celery
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon dried thyme
½ teaspoon salt
Optional: ½ cup green pepper
½ pound pound pork sausage
Chicken stock to moisten

Crumble cornbread. In a large skillet, saute sausage, onion, green pepper, and celery until meat is browned and vegetables just tender. Drain thoroughly.

In mixing bowl, combine sausage mixture, eggs, thyme, and salt. Add the crumbled cornbread and toss until well mixed.

Add enough stock to moisten as desired. Will stuff 12-14 pound bird. May be baked in greased 2½ quart casserole in preheated 325 degree oven for approximately 45 minutes.

Pot Pie

⅔ cup tapioca flour
⅔ cup corn starch
¼ cup potato starch
1 teapsoon salt
1 tablet plus 1 teaspoon Xanthan gum
2 whole eggs, beaten
2 egg whites, beaten

Have broth, meat, onions, and potatoes ready on stove.

Mix flour, salt, and Xantham gum. Blend eggs and oil and stir in the flours.

Use flour to roll out. Drop pieces into broth. Cook 5 to 15 minutes.

'Heavenly' Cake Claims Grand Prize In Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Heavenly," is the description of the cake that bested 60 entries in the Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show last Saturday.

Fittingly, the prize cake was dubbed Heavenly Dark Chocolate Cake by Barbara Doyle, who entered the cake after qualifying at the Hollidaysburg Community Fair.

Barbara's victory was not without a price. The day before the contest, she baked three cakes that flopped before she discovered the culprit was outdated baking soda.

"Fortunately my husband is a real cake eater," said Barbara who admits to trying 20 different recipes before settling on the prize winner. Then she tried several different types of frosting, which her husband and the hairdresses at her shop sampled before voting peanut butter frosting as the crowning combination.

Barbara etched a chocolate butterfly from Hershey's Kisses and semi-sweet chocolate chips to hover over the heavenly creation.

Winning the blue ribbon brought with it a weekend trip for four at the Hershey Resort and Conference Center in Hershey.

Second place went to Cindy Bruce of West Chester. Her Chocolate Fudge Turtle Cake sounds fabulous, but Cindy said that neither she nor her family has ever sampled it.

"I'd like to taste it," said both husband Bob and 11-year-old son Mike. But they have no promises of one from Cindy who bakes for others but has no time to bake for her own family.

She examined many recipes before selecting the one to bake for the contest. She then chose a caramel sauce and a favorite frosting to lather on the cake.

Third prize was captured by Georgia Voce of Breezewood. Two years ago, she qualified for state competition but did not win. Determined to qualify again, Geogia entered numerous fairs. She used the same recipe and garnered three first-place wins, five second-place wins, and a third place.

(Turn to Page B12)

The New Brillion Soil Commanders take Residue Management to the next generation of soil conservation efficiency.

The Soil Commanders are versatile tillage tools designed to meet the needs of the mid-size farmer who uses a 150-200 H.P. tractor. One of the keys to the machine's versatility is that it uses interchangeable shank legs and individually mounted disk assemblies instead of a disk gang. This makes possible a machine with disk assemblies on the front and rear of the frame with chisel plow or deep-ripper shanks on 15", 24", 27" or 30" spacings.

She was allowed to enter only one in state competition. After searching through cookbooks, Georgia chose one of Hershey's published recipes.

Although original recipes are encouraged, they are not required by co-sponsors Hershey Foods Corporation and the Pa. State Association of County Fairs. According to the rules, Hershey cocoa must be used in the recipe. If the cake is frosted with chocolate frosting, Hershey cocoa must also be used.

Barbara Doyle

2 cups sugar
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
¾ cup Hershey's cocoa
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
½ cup vegetable oil
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup boiling water

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 9-inch round baking pans. In large mixing bowl, combine dry ingredients. Add buttermilk, eggs, oil, and vanilla; beat on medium speed for 2 minutes. Remove from mixer, stir in boiling water. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 30-35 minutes or until wooden toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10-12 minutes. Remove from pans to wire rack. Cool completely. Frost with peanut butter frosting. Serves 8 to 10.

Peanut Butter Frosting:

4 cups confectioners' sugar
⅔ cup butter
½ cup peanut butter
¼ cup milk

Combine in large bowl. Mix until smooth. Frost.

Melt Hershey's chocolate for butterfly.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE TURTLE CAKE

Second Place
Cindy Bruce

Layer cake:
1⅔ cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
⅔ cup Hershey's cocoa
1½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups buttermilk
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 9-inch layer cake pans. In large bowl of mixer, beat all ingredients on low speed, scraping bowl contantly, 30 seconds. Beat on high speed, scraping bowl occasionally, 3 minutes. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake in preheated oven for 30 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cakes in pans 10 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely on wire racks.

Frosting:
1½ cups shortening
6 cups confectioners' sugar
1 cup Hershey's cocoa
1½ teaspoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoons meringue powder
3 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons light corn syrup

Cream shortening with electric mixer. Add vanilla. Gradually add sugar, cocoa, and meringue powder. When all sugar and cocoa is mixed in, icing will appear dry. Add milk and corn syrup and beat until light and fluffy: Add additional light corn syrup, if necessary, to achieve proper spreading consistency. Cover with plastic wrap until needed.

Caramel Sauce:
14 ounces caramel
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
½ cup pecan pieces, divided
½ cup Hershey's mini chocolate chips, divided

Melt caramels with evaporated milk in saucepan over low heat. Stir until smooth. Cool slightly.

Assembly of cake:

Brush crumbs off cake layers and remove crown to make level. Pipe bead of frosting around top edge of first layer. Pour half of the caramel sauce on top and work to edge. Sprinkle with half of the pecan pieces and half of the Hershey's Mini Chocolate Chips. Top with second cake layer. Frost top and sides of cake. Pipe scroll border around base and top of cake with a #21 or #32 star tip. Carefully spoon remaining caramel sauce on top of cake and work to edge. Sprinkle with remaining pecan pieces and Hershey's chocolate chips.

Optional: Create homemade turtles with Hershey's semi-sweet or Milk chocolate chips, milk caramels, and pecan halves. Melt caramels and chocolate chips separately over low heat in saucepan or in microwave over low power. Pour a small amount of melted chocolate onto greased waxed paper. Press four pecan halves into chocolate. Spoon a small amount of caramel over pecans. Cover with small amount of melted chocolate. Let stand until firm. Place around cake on serving platter.

HERSHEY'S COCOA CAKE

Third Place
Georgia Voce

1¾ cups flour
2 cups sugar
¾ cup Hershey's cocoa
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup coffee
1 cup buttermilk
½ cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine and beat 2 minutes on medium speed. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. Frost as desired.

Chocolate Fact Sheet
Eat Sweets and Stay Thin

Satisfying a sweet shortly before a meal (with 15 jellybeans, for example) may actually help you stay thin according to Judity Wurtman, Ph.D., research scientist at MIT. Why? Carbohydrates, including sweets, cause the brain to release serotinin, a chemical that encourages the feeling of satisfaction even after a small meal.

Hello! Are You Awake?

Coffee - 1 cup=93 to 153 milligrams caffeine; Tea - 1 cup brewed 1 min.=28 mg. caffeine; Tea - 1 cup brewed 3 min.=44 mg. caffeine; Soft Drinks - 12 oz. can=32-65 mg. caffeine; Chocolate- 1 oz.=5 mg. theobromine caffeine.

FACT, Cocoa Butter Melts at 98.6 Farenheit, the Same Temperature as Your Tongue

You've seen chocolate that looks as if it has a white "mold". It is not mold that makes that appearance, it is cocoa butter "bloom". The crystals in the chocolate have separated and the fat has risen to the surface. It is due to improper working temperatures, or storage conditions that have caused shocking temperature changes in the chocolate. It has not gone "bad", it is edible with only a slight compromise to its texture.

How to Recognize Better Chocolate

1. Appearance: It has a smoothg, glossy sheen. 2. Texture: It breaks cleanly and firmly with an audible snap. 3. Aroma: It smells of chocolate, not cocoa, with a full, rounded aroma. 4. Taste: It melts like butter in your mouth, smooth and creamy, and with a pleasant aftertaste, without sticky clinging, or gritty feel.

Fact: Chocolate Prohibits Tooth Decay

The American Dental Association and MIT have discovered that chocolate in the mouth blocks a bacterial enzyme that converts sucrose to a sticky form of sugar that leads to plaque buildup. Plain chocolate reacts with flouride in the saliva to replace lost calcium. While the cocoa butter melts quickly, acting as an agent to carry food particles away from the teeth.

Pennsylvania Farm Show Opens To Crowds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Before the blizzard hit, Farm Show was business as usual on opening day. It was shoulder to shoulder crowds who gathered to cheer rodeo participants, admire champion livestock, and indulge in famous Farm Show chow.

The crowds present an opportunity to meet people across the state but miss the next-door neighbor. Pictured are some of those folks you may have missed but Lancaster Farming's camera caught. Photos by Lou Ann Good.

On deck at the G&G Industries display of vinyl fencing, decks, and docks are Tara Iacoponi, 8; Travis Witman, 5; Stanley Witman, 3. Tara is the daughter of Helen Iacoponi of Harrisburg, and the Witmans are children of Gary and Angela of Marysville. Standing are Jeremy, 9, and Jonathan Kantner, 6, of Lancaster.

After the judging in completed, Farm Show visitors line up to sample the 60 cakes entered in competition.

Janelle, 6, and her sister Jeanna, 13, children of Mary Jane and Glen Musser of Manheim, think the rodeo is the best attraction during Farm Show.

People of all ages are fascinated by the birds of prey, turtles, snakes, spiders, toads, honeybees, skulls and skins in the "see and touch" exhibit.

Supreme Swine Is 'Big, Stout, Lean Red Hog'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A "big, stout, lean red hog" caught the eye of Pennsylvania Farm Show Bred Gilt Show judge Clyde Shaffer, Albany, Ind. last week.

The champion Duroc gilt, MS Gambler, was a March gilt shown by David C. Holloway, Glen Rock.

Shaffer said gilts must not only provide a good product in the meat case, but be "a good momma." This translates into nutrition, TLC (tender loving care), and doing whatever necessary to produce a desired product, according to Shaffer.

Shaffer picked champions of several other breeds last week at the Farm Show.

Berkshires

Shaffer said that the Berkshire breed "leads the whole nation in meat quality.

"Meat quality is going to be a tremendous, tremendous issue," he said. Shaffer pointed out that the Berkshire breed is "number one" in that area as proof on the kill sheets.

Shaffer chose the February gilt, TLB2 MS Klondike Bars, exhibited by Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown, as champion of the breed.

He said the hog exhibited an "excellent underline" with exceptional length of body. It was a "big hog" that was lean with a lot of muscle. Shaffer chose the champion's littermate, exhibited by the Bennecoffs, as reserve.

Shaffer said the industry is moving to bigger hogs, to 260-265 pounds at finish, which will present a challenge to swine breeders.

Chester Whites

Shaffer said the "backbone" of the industry comes from the purebred breeders. For champion Chester White, he chose a hog that was longest, with the most muscle expansion, "excellent in underline and lean down the top — leaner than anything I've seen in here today."

He chose the February gilt shown by Scott Lazarus, Germansville, as champion. The champion, SLI5 Payday's Special, was "an outstanding female." Reserve went to the February gilt reserve champion shown by James Parlett, Airville, TM5 Dame T. III.

Durocs

Shaffer selected the March gilt shown by David C. Holloway, Glen Rock. The champion gilt, MS Gambler, was a "big, stout, lean red hog," said Shaffer.

Reserve champion went to the February gilt shown by Betty Holloway, MS Gambler. Shaffer said the hog was "really level, really long, really athletic in movement."

Hampshires

Size and scale define a champion gilt, according to Shaffer. With that in mind, he chose Donna and J.C. Strawbridge's March gilt, STR5 Rowdy's Buck, as grand champion.

After hearing the judge's reasons, Strawbridge, from Whitehall, walked to the gates and tried to hold back tears while others came to hug and congratulate her for her prize hog.

Shaffer told those at the show to continue to breed the hogs and progress the industry and "go down the road." He then selected a February gilt shown by Ken Winebark Family, Myerstown, KLW5 Beyond Belief, to reserve champion.

Landrace

Shaffer admired a hog that is "really level in her top with really tremendous movement, an athletic hog" as grand champion in the Landrace breed. The "outstanding female" that would exhibit tremendous "production and longevity" was shown by Grant Lazarus III, from Germansville. LAG5 Aris Nancy D, a February gilt, became champion Landrace.

The reserve, a February gilt shown by George Paul Billig, New Tripoli, BGP5 Ms Warrior's Unique, could "be one of the most exciting hogs the Landrace breed has had in a long time," said Shaffer.

Polands

CAB5 Ms Concrete, shown by Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown, a January gilt, exhibited "the most extension, with a taller and bigger frame" than any others in the Poland China contest.

Bennecoff swept the show, winning reserve with CAB5 Ms Stormin, a March gilt.

Spotted

Gilts that exhibit the "most length of body and who are leanest down the top" will win championships.

In this case, Spotted champion went to Lazarus Brothers, Germansville, for their February gilt, LLB5 Justice.

Yorkshires

At the end of the last class in the Yorkshire competition, Shaffer told the exhibitors to get "pictures of these hogs to promote your product."

He said pictures will allow them to show to others what is being done to promote the industry.

A gilt that was level in top and "carried herself well" became champion. The January gilt, CBH5 Jennie, was shown by Charles Hall, Rattlesnake Mt. Farm, Julian.

The reserve, which won reserve January gilt, was also shown by Rattlesnake Mt. Farm, CBH5 Jannie, littermate to the champion.

In all, there were a total of 145 hogs and 28 exhibitors.

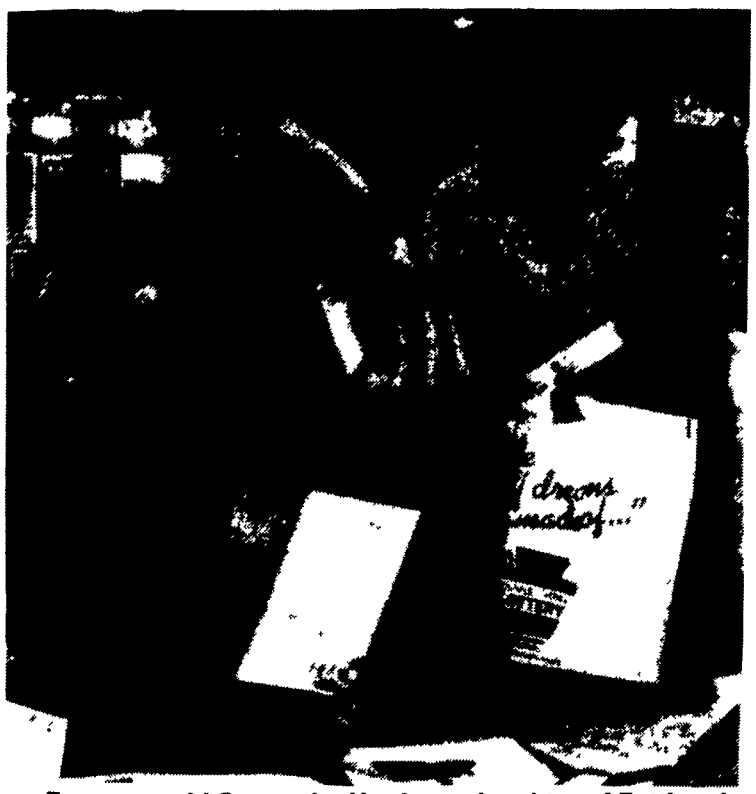
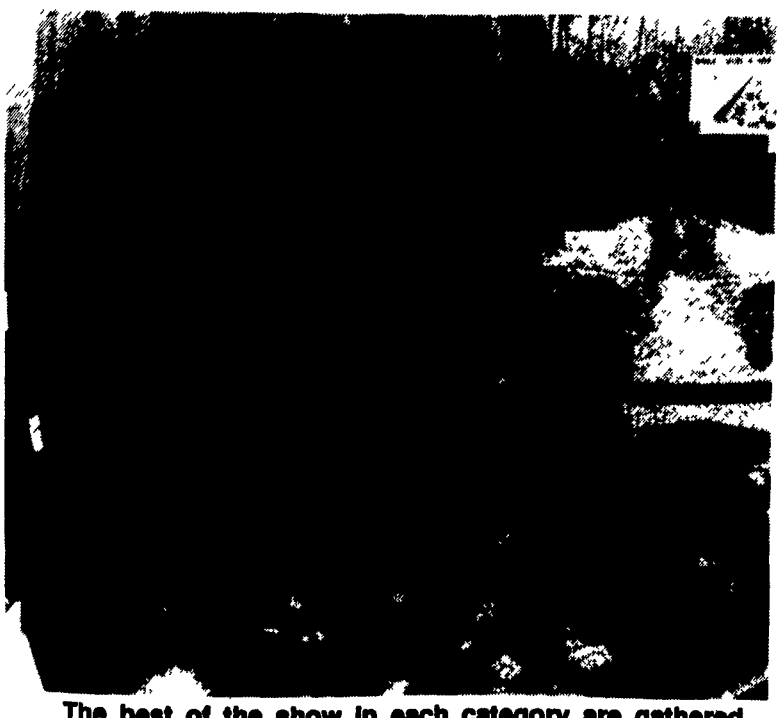
Scenes From The 1996 Farm Show

Those who wanted to grab a bite to eat during the rodeo could watch the rodeo on closed circuit television in the food court.

Getting an early introduction into helping at the Pennsylvania Farm Show is 7-week-old Matthew Nolt, son of Kristi Nolt, and grandson of Sally Nolts. The Nolts are from Elizabethtown.



Four-year-old Samantha Hartigan, daughter of Patti and Tony of Bethlehem finds a book among the display for children.



The best of the show in each category are gathered together for display in the Family Corner.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details.

QUESTION — Daniel Sensenig, Ephrata, would like to know where to purchase cherry pits or similar products to burn in a wood pellet stove. Is there a store in southeastern Pennsylvania that sells these products already dried and baged?

QUESTION — John Kreider, New Holland, writes that he collects milk bottles from dairies in Pennsylvania. He has one from Sunnyside Farm, Flicksville. Does anybody know where this dairy is located or where it was because he cannot pinpoint it on current Pennsylvania maps. John would also like to know where A.T. Shiedy Dairy and John Kraybill Dairy are located.

QUESTION — Marilyn Dunker, Spring Valley, ILL., would like to find cross stitch pattern for Allis-Chalmers Model WD tractor.

QUESTION — Laura Jennings, Columbia, N.J., writes that she has a blue-eyed (sky blue) rabbit. Is this common?

QUESTION — Lebanon Countian Harold Kreider; Box 1890, #1, Jonestown, PA (717) 865-7447. Has a Kohler air boat engine, single cyl.-two cycl. model #K295-1st.-295 CC. He needs an owner's manual or to talk to someone familiar with this engine. Please contact him directly.

QUESTION — Esther Nolt, Newmanstown, would like to know where she can buy a set of Jungle Doctor books written by Paul White. She enjoyed these books as a child and would like to get them for her children.

QUESTION — Dale Leighow, R.R.3, Box 368, Catawissa, would like to locate some seed from a corn called 8-row yellow or possibly Flint corn. It is a small diameter cob about 8-10-inches long. Also the cob is white and every ear has eight rows of kernals. The kernel is about the size of an average person's fingernail on the ring finger and is dark yellow in color. It was used many years ago to grind into cornmeal. Dale would like 20 to 25 kernels to plant in 1996.

QUESTION — A Turbotville reader would like to know where to find literature or an owner's manual on a US Slicing Machine Co., Van Berkel's original hand crank meat slicer that was made in 1912 in La Porte, Ind.

QUESTION — Glenda Strouse, Northumberland, would like to know the title and author of an excerpt from the following poem. The complete poem appeared in the 12/9 issue, but we need to condense for space. It's her grandmother's favorite poem and she could recite every word until a stroke took her voice. She is 89 and in a nursing home, but Glenda reads this poem to her every Christmas. Glenda said that there may be parts missing or wrong since she wrote it from memory.

The yule log blazed in the ancient hold.
The begger shrank from the biting cold.
The baron's only daughter, the little Lady Grace was better dressed than any guest and fairer in the face.
Yet never a thought of pride had she
as she gaily danced round the Christmas tree. . . .

QUESTION — Doris E. Jordan, R.4, Box 153, Muncy, Pa. 17756, will pay for a pattern to make an appliqued peacock quilt.

QUESTION — Mary Dengler, Middletown, Ohio, would like to know where to purchase heavy duty chair frames for macrame. She does not want to do all that work on used frames.

QUESTION — A subscriber would like to know where to get a stove enameled.

QUESTION — Mrs. David Fisher, 1068 Back Maitland Rd., Lewistown, PA 17044, is looking for "Engine Whistles," the fifth reader from the Alice and Jerry series by Row, Peterson, and Co.

Lancaster Farming Sponsors Philadelphia Flower Show Bus

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A group from the Lancaster Farming is planning a bus trip to the Philadelphia Flower Show on Saturday, March 2. The trip is open to the public.

The bus will leave the Lancaster Farming parking lot at 8 a.m. and return at approximately 6 p.m.

The cost is $22.50 per person, which includes ticket to the show.

For reservations or additional information, call Karen Hoffer at (717) 626-1164.

PHILADELPHIA—As winter gives way to spring, The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's 1996 Philadelphia Flower Show will be in full bloom at a brand new location. From February 25 to March 3, the world's largest and most prestigious indoor flower show will fill 10 acres of the Pennsylvania Convention Center with the flowers and fragrance of spring in "This Land Is Your Land...Philadelphia In Flower."

This historic move marks the beginning of a new era for the Show. After 30 years at the Philadelphia Civic Center, the new Convention Center offers expanded exhibition space, a state-of-the-art facility, easy access to mass transit, and a center city location.

"The move to the Convention Center is a wonderful opportunity for us," says Show Designer Ed Lindemann. "The new site will allow the Show's exhibits and amenities to grow and at the same time remain comfortable for all of our guests."

The Show will grow in many ways in 1996. The exhibition space will increase from six acres at the Civic Center to 10 acres at the Convention Center. The Convention Center will have four times as many escalators and elevators for visitors, wider aisles, a greater number of food areas and more rest rooms. But despite the changes, the focus will remain the same. In addition to the major exhibitors featured, the Show will continue to present competitive classes, lectures and demonstrations, a marketplace for shoppers and gardening information.

The move of the Philadelphia Flower Show will impact the entire city as well. Flower Show Wekk, a citywide celebration, will be held throughout the downtown area. More than 50 cultural attractions and special programs will tie-in to the spring theme in museums, restaurants, hotels, theaters and stores. Merchants will showcase floral designs and offer special sales on flowers and fashions to bring an early spring to Philadelphia. For a complete listing of Flower Show Week activities and events, write the Philadelphia Convention & Visitors Bureau, P.O. Box 58353, Philadelphia, PA 19102 or call 1-800-611-5960.

If You Drive

The Pennsylvania Convention Center is easily accessible from I-95, I-76, Route 611 and Route 309. There are approximately 8,000 parking spaces within four blocks of the Convention Center. Philadelphia PHLASH shuttle buses will stop at all major attractions in the Convention Center area throughout the day and evening.

FLOWER SHOW GROWTH AT THE CONVENTION CENTER

- Bigger Exhibition Hall: 10 acres
- Bigger Aisles: narrowest aisles 20 feet; widest aisles 40 feet.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Now that winter is here, I spend most of my time indoors simply looking outdoors. The birds at the feeder are always interesting. It seems that the pecking order is blue jays first, followed by cardinals, and then the smaller birds.

One animal that gets my attention day after day is a red fox that hunts in our meadow. With the binoculars, one can see how his coat glistens and also how very black his legs are. He makes two trips through the woods and then sits in the open area listening for voles or mice. Sometimes I see him pounce but most of the time he heads up the hill to his home hungry.

Indoors my attention is often on my blooming impatiens. One crimson plant has one hundred flowers at one time. And, nearby is a pink with dark pink edges that has some 50 blossoms. Even the white and red begonias are very pretty. Of course, they need to be tended in order to keep them blooming all winter.

I've found time to put a year's worth of photos in books. Would you believe that we received 73 pictures of one grandchild in ten months? The first child in a family has the most pictures taken of him. Some scrapbooks have been filled and a few magazines read.

Over Christmas both our car and our truck decided not to work. So, it was good that the family gathering was here as we were homebound. There were about 40 at our gathering and too much food was left over.

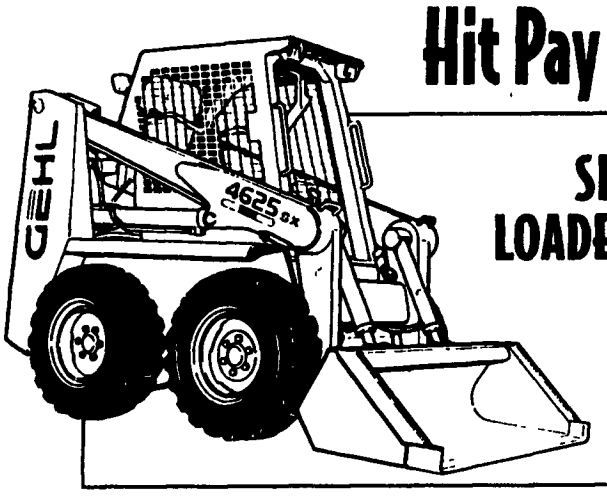
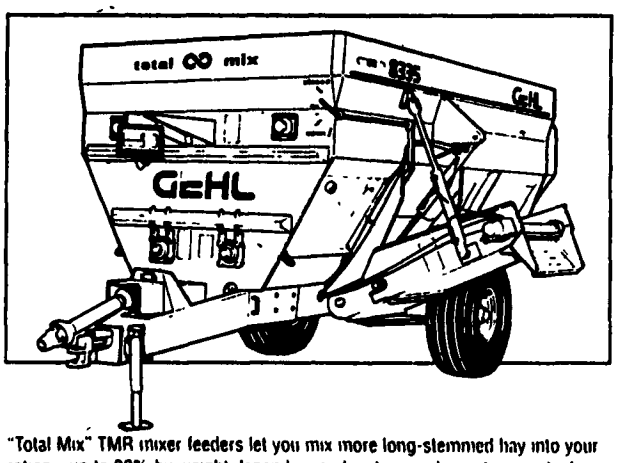
SKID LOADERS



- Models available with SAE operating capacities from 850 lbs. to 2050 lbs.
- Standard Dirt/Construction Buckets with capacities from 7 3 cu. ft. to 17 cu. ft.
- Wide variety of attachments available
- High capacity auxiliary hydraulics
- See your local authorized dealer for sales, service, parts and financing

TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content

- "Hay-slicer auger" - incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built to last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Produce Managers Share $2,600 In Prizes

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Produce managers from 14 supermarkets in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and New York received cash awards as the winners of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program's retail display contest held during National Apple Month in October.

The 14 winning displays were selected from entries submitted by nine retail chains and wholesalers serving 1,400 supermarkets in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Virginia, and West Virginia. A total of $2,600 in prizes were presented to the produce managers who built the most creative in-store displays featuring Pennsylvania-grown Eastern Select apples.

• 1st Place, $500, Keith Fetterholf, Foodland #6077, Lebanon, Pa.

• 2nd Place, $200, Arnie Gasperetti, Radzievich's IGA, Minersville, PA and Craig Morrison, Giant Foods #51, Exton, PA.

• 3rd Place, $100, Curt Kauffman, Martins #67, Eldersburg, MD; Anna Fetterholf, Elizabethville, Elizabethville, PA; Jeffrey Wolfe, Dutchway Farm Market, Schaefferstown, PA; and Michelle Hoffman, Nells Shurfine #1608, Carlisle, PA.

The western winners included:

• 1st Place, $500, Donna Sage, Aberdeen Kleins Super Mkt., Aberdeen, MD.

• 2nd Place, $200, Greg Johnson, Ross Park Shop n Save, Pittsburgh, PA and Mark Brazinsky, BiLo #280, Shamokin, PA.

• 3rd Place, $100, Karen Sherwood, Peck's Market #69661, Callicoon, NY; Tony Krelitzer, Pines Plaza Foodland, Pittsburgh, PA; Raymond Hainsey, Riverside Market, Altoona, PA; and Lisa Upole, Accident IGA, Accident, MD.

"This annual contest builds enthusiasm and provides a partnership between the apple industry and retail produce managers," said Brenda Briggs, director of the Pennsylvania Apple Marketing Program. "The produce managers did a fantastic job building impressive displays this fall. These displays definitely help sell more apples, which benefits the retailers and our growers."

PLANNING AHEAD

Dennis E. Buffington
Professor & Head
Dept. of Ag & Bio Engineering

It is very important for poultry producers and other agricultural producers to develop realistic enterprise plans for the next five, 10-, and 20-year periods.

Once developed, these plans serve as blueprints for guiding future activities and for identifying appropriate areas of concentration.

Just as it is critically important for poultry producers to develop plans for the future, it is equally important for academic departments at universities to develop plans.

Through extensive discussions with faculty and other internal and external stakeholders of the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering, we developed our education/research thrusts for the period from 1996 to 2000.

The education/research thrusts for the period 1996-2000 have been identified as:

- Controlled environments for animal and plant production and commodity storages
- Mechanical and structural systems
- Natural resources conservation and management
- Processing for adding value to biological materials
- Safety and systems engineering.

The education portion of the thrusts refers to our education programs in both resident education and non-formal extension education. Listed below are several examples of specific activities for each identified education/research thrust for the next five-year period.

Controlled Environment Systems

Modifying indoor and outdoor environmental parameters to provide more desirable conditions to enhance:

- Animal and crop production.
- Operator and animal comfort.
- Crop storage.
- Cold protection of crops.
- Micropropagation of plants.

Mechanical And Structural Systems

Developing design concepts and parameters responsibly to address today's needs and to sustain future generations, focusing on:

- Animal production units and greenhouses.
- Processing operations for food, feed, wood and other materials.
- Facilities for handling, transporting, packaging, and storing materials.

Natural Resources Conservation And Management

Using and protecting natural resources responsibly to address today's needs and to sustain future generations, focusing on:

- Soil erosion.
- Movement of pollutants through soil and water.
- Water quality.
- Waste management.

Processing Systems For Adding Value

Improving thermal, chemical, and mechanical processing systems for adding economic value to food, wood, and other biological products, emphasizing:

- Food processing.
- Engineering properties of biological materials.
- Flow patterns of powders and granular products.
- Wood products development.

Safety And Systems Engineering

Formulating and incorporating principles of safety and systems engineering to improve production and processing systems, with emphasis on:

- Agricultural safety and health.
- Ergonomics.
- Systems optimization.
- Artificial intelligence and expert systems.
- Automation, computer controls, and sensors.

The above identified education/research thrusts will enable us to make difficult decisions regarding what gets emphasized and what may be eliminated during periods of downsizing. The identified thrusts represent our best thinking in terms of our current capabilities and future opportunities so that we can achieve the greatest impact with our education and research programs.

We invite you to visit with us in the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering at Penn State to discuss our education and research thrusts. We also invite you to keep us informed of appropriate opportunities for agricultural and biological engineers to make contributions of significance to the poultry industry as well as other agricultural enterprises.

Even though these thrust areas have now been identified for the next five years, we must maintain a certain amount of flexibility so that we are able to respond to changing internal and external situations. As you poultry producers know, we must all maintain flexibility and adaptability to ensure the successes of our businesses and academic institutions.

BIGGER BALES. WITHOUT A BIGGER TRACTOR.

When we designed the 540, we knew you wanted a higher capacity round baler with versatility and convenience. We also knew you liked your tractor.

So keep your present tractor. Because with the 540 attached, all you need is a minimum 45 PTO horsepower tractor. We built the 540 with all the features of a large baler in a compact, low-profile design. The direct-feed, open-throat design makes for fast bale starts and easy operation.

You'll be able to handle a wide variety of crops with great maneuverability. All with your current tractor.

See it at your AGCO Hesston dealer today. Ask about flexible financing through Agricredit Acceptance Company.

Chemgro Holds Annual Meeting

EAST PETERSBURG (Lancaster Co.)—More than 300 farmers attended the annual farmers meeting recently at Yoder's Restaurant.

Owner and President Woody Funk opened the meeting by introducing the employees, including several new additions to Chemgro's growing staff.

The latest herbicides and weed control programs were presented by targeting specific weed problems such as black nightshade and burr cucumber. The presenters were Duane Hobbs (Dupont), Mike Fleming (Cynamid), and Tara Soper (Ciba). Andy Bowen (Dow Elanco) discussed the specifics of soil insecticides and planter calibration.

Jim Bowersox, Chemgro's sales manager, discussed the latest products from Chemgro Seeds. Chemgro has added six new corn hybrids, two new soybeans, and a new silage innoculant that can be applied in liquid or dry form.

Restructuring Prompts Realignment

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.)—In an effort to fully restructure its feed manufacturing and pork production divisions for the 21st Century, White Oak Mills Inc. recently implemented a new top-management team.

D. Andrew Cooper of Mount Joy recently joined the company as vice president of swine operations to oversee the company's pork production division. Vice President of Mill Operations Greg R. Gillespie, of Elizabethtown, leads the company's feed manufacturing division. Don E. Lloyd, of Newville, heads White Oak's dairy division as vice president, dairy. Meanwhile, Larry Weinstein, of Lancaster, has joined White Oak as vice president of finance.

In addition, Mark C. Wagner of East Petersburg will serve as the company's president and chief operating officer. Both positions have been held by John C. Wagner of Manheim since the company's start in 1976. John Wagner, co-owner of White Oak Mills, continues as chairman of the board and re-aligns himself as vice president of sales for the company's dairy and independent swine feed sales, a responsibility for which he has overseen since White Oak's start.

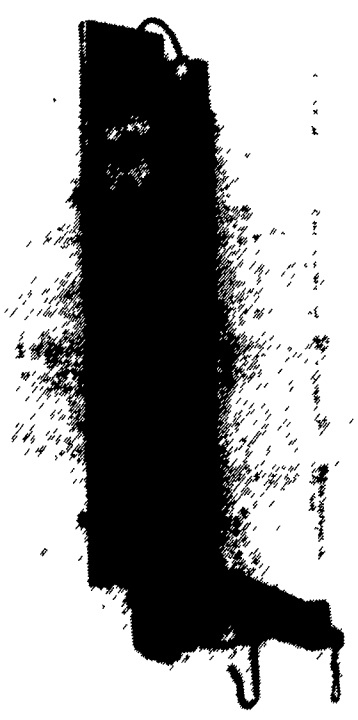
Upgrade Package Offers New Detacher Technology

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — Dairy producers will benefit from a new upgrade package that can make their existing detacher more efficient.

The Omni Germania Upgrade Package from Babson Bros. Co. is designed to allow dairy producers to upgrade all existing Germania Arm or Chain detachers with the built-in intelligence of Omni™ Logic and patented Optic Sensing. Omni Logic is an electronic control system for detachers.

"The Omni Logic automatic detacher includes unique features that will help dairy producers become more efficient. These include vacuum-on delay, milk let-down delay, end-of-milk delay, soft take-off delay, milk sweep, and cylinder release delay," said Don Mayer, product marketing manager of Babson Bros. Co., marketer of Surge® brand equipment.

Optic Sensing is another key feature that will give producers more accurate milk flow data while reducing the chance of under- or over-milking, according to Mayer. Optic Sensing is a new technology that does not require milk contact in the meter to detect milk flow. It uses a beam of light to determine milk flow status, so build-up from milk fats, proteins, and cleaning solutions will not inhibit sensing. Poor quality milk, high SCCs, or mastitic milk will not interfere with the optic sensing.



Dairy producers will benefit from a new upgrade package that can make their existing detacher more efficient.

Monsanto Introduces New Herbicide Formulation

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Monsanto Company has introduced Roundup® Ultra herbicide, an improved formulation of the original Roundup, which has been a mainstay in weed control since its U.S. introduction more than 20 years ago.

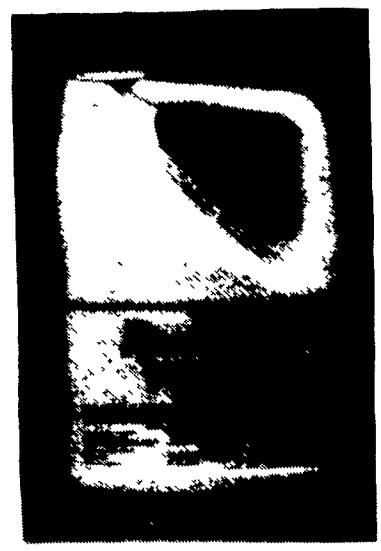
Roundup Ultra is the result of eight years of intensive research and performance trials to develop a product using TransSorb℠ technology, an improved formulation of Roundup which offers a number of performance benefits to farmers and custom applicators.

The TransSorb technology results in an improved rainfast interval of one to two hours. The current Roundup label recommends a six-hour time interval between application and rainfall.

The better rainfast interval will reduce weather-related delays and improve overall performance. This can be especially important in the spring, when frequent showers can make scheduling applications difficult.

With Roundup Ultra, producers will be able to increase the efficiency of field operations because they will be able to plant, cultivate, and irrigate the same day the herbicide is applied to annual weeds.

Roundup Ultra is easy to handle because it requires no added surfactants or additives. It comes ready to spray when mixed with water, but it also can be tank-mixed with other herbicides, such as 2,4-D and a variety of other products.



Monsanto Company has introduced Roundup Ultra, an improved formulation of a mainstay in weed control.

Computer Link Speeds Customer Service

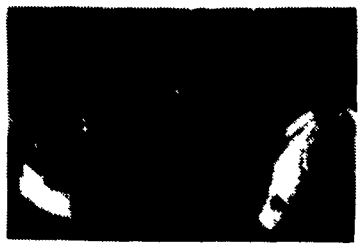
RACINE, Wis.—Case Corporation has announced to its dealer network the availability of Advanced Business Communications (ABC), a customized computer system developed by Case to improve customer service and product support.

With ABC, Case IH dealerships will be able to provide faster, better information on equipment, parts, and service.

ABC links Case IH dealers via satellite directly to Case's database using two programs—SupportPRO™ and SalesPRO™. SupportPRO is a comprehensive customer service and support system that gives dealers immediate electronic access to parts catalogs and service bulletines. SalesPRO lets dealers expand on information from Case's corporate database to build detailed customer profiles that help them better understand and anticipate customer equipment and support needs.

"Case IH dealers using ABC will improve their communication with the company. This will help them better serve their customers," said Alan T. Biland, director, Case sales and distribution systems. "The dealers who have been using ABC prototypes are very excited about the speed, accuracy, and comprehensiveness of the new ABC system."

Specifically, ABC's SupportPRO program gives dealers fingertip access to hundreds of parts catalogs dating back to the late 1950s. A customer no longer has to wait while the person behind the counter pages through catalogs or scans microfiche to find the right part. SupportPRO displays a complete overview of all the parts necessary to do a repair. "Dealership personnel can turn the screen toward the customer and show exactly what parts they are replacing or repairing," Biland said.



Advanced Business Communications (ABC), a customized computer system developed by Case Corporation, will substantially improve customer service by making it possible for Case IH dealerships to provide faster, better information on equipment, parts, and service.

Herbicide Registered

PHILADELPHIA—A new formulation of Command herbicide has been approved for sale to farmers by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Command 3ME is a new microencapsulated formulation of the grass and broadleaf herbicide extensively used in soybean, cotton, and tobacco production.

The 3ME formulation of Command allows the product to be applied as a surface broadcast or branded application nationally without incorporation.

"The new product has weed control strengths equal to the original Command 4EC formulation, but it can be applied preemergence. The new formulation has allowed a reduction in the required buffer zones between treated fields and nearby vegetation," said Max Parks, FMC Corporation product manager. "However, proper stewardship of the product is still required to minimize off-target movement.

"It is FMC's intent to convert the company's current Command 4EC formulation to the 3ME formulation, but it will be done in a staged replacement strategy. This plan will reduce inventory concerns as well as allow manufacturing time to provide sufficient volumes of the new, high quality product. The product will be available this season for use on cotton, soybeans and tobacco," Parks said.

The active ingredient molecules of the Command 3ME are microencapsulated within microscopic polymer capsules and suspended in a water base. Once applied to the soil, the herbicide molecules slowly diffuse through the polymer that surrounds them. Then, they attach to the soil where they inhibit growth of approximately 50 grasses and broadleaf weeds.

Auto-Reset Option New For Sub-Tiller

LINCOLN, Neb. — Thurston Manufacturing has added an auto-reset option to their popular Sub-Tiller II conservation tillage tool.

The auto-reset feature allows the operator to stay on the tractor when sub-tilling in rocky soil. Powerful springs quickly reset shanks "on-the-go," so there's no need to stop the tractor or lift the unit out of the soil.

Auto-reset can be a real time-saver in the field where soil is rocky. Shear-bolt and flex-trip versions remain available.

Case Offers Complete Seeding System

RACINE, Wis.—To meet the growing need among farmers for highly productive equipment to work in conservation-tillage and site-specific farming applications, Case Corporation announced that it has signed an agreement to acquire Concord, Inc., maker of one of the best-selling air-till drill systems in North America.

The Concord® seeding system will be offered through Case IH dealerships under the Case IH brand name and will continue to be available through existing distribution outlets.

The Case IH Concord seeding system, designed for planting wheat the other cereal grains, performs soil preparation, ribbon seeding and deep-band fertilizer applications all in one pass, resulting in less soil erosion and moisture loss, as well as increased productivity.

"The acquisition of this company, its equipment and technology will help us make our customers more productive and successful in their farming operations," said Jon Carlson, vice president, North American sales and marketing. "Like the recently introduced Case IH 5800 mulch-till chisel, the Concord system fits right into any farmer's conservation compliance plans. The system's variable-rate control technology is also a match with our recently introduced site-specific farming equipment."

Case Corporation has acquired Concord, Inc., manufacturer of one of the industry's leading air-till drill systems. The Concord® system performs soil preparation, ribbon seeding and deep-band fertilizer applications all in one pass, resulting in less soil erosion and moisture loss, as well as increased productivity.

Unique to the Concord system is its "ribbon seeding" capability, in which openers spread seed in a 6-inch band rather than a single row, providing three to four times more area for development of each plant. Because each plant has access to a larger nutrient zone, yield potential is improved.

Employee Management Seminar Comes To Pa.

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Finding and keeping good employees is a continual struggle for many farm and agribusiness firms. "Employee Management," a two-day seminar on Jan. 16 and 23 for farms, agribusinesses, and related industries, is designed to help managers meet the challenge of developing a strong and productive team of employees.

The seminars, at the Williamsport Sheraton Inn, are sponsored by Northeastern Farm Credit. According to Jonas Kauffman, executive director of Farm Credit Financial Management Service, the seminar will be useful for businesses who employ or are considering hiring at least one full-time employee and to key middle managers who supervise one or more employees.

"Over 500 agricultural and related businesses in New York and New England have enjoyed this Farm Credit-sponsored seminar, and we are very pleased to be able to bring it to Pennsylvania," said Kauffman.

Among the topics to be discussed at the seminar are recruiting, interviewing, and training new employees, motivating different types of employees, developing a compensation and incentive plan, and improving communication within your business.

Instructors for the seminar are Jonas Kauffman and Gary Snider. Snider is a farm business consultant with Farm Credit of Western New York. Both men have been presenting business management seminars for many years.

Seminar registration fee is $195 and includes reference materals, lunches, and coffee breaks for both sessions. Additional participants from the same farm can register for a reduced fee of $125.

For more information or to register, call Jonas Kauffman at (800) 477-9947.

Supreme Award Puts 'Stamp Of Approval' On Opinions About Beef Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Bill Shoemaker, who on a snow-blanketed Monday held the banner for his supreme champion bull of the beef open show at the Farm Show, spoke on Tuesday about what it takes to win a championship.

Shoemaker said that genetics and management were largely involved in providing a supreme champion, a Simmental senior bull from his purebred stock operation, Maple Cove Breeders in Buffalo Mills.

Shoemaker exhibited his 2-year-old bull, Shoemaker's Highway Dream Jet (S: Highwayman 33T, D: Dream Girl II), to the grand champion Simmental and supreme bull honors on Monday.

"We've had a number of grand champion bulls at Farm Shows in years past," said Shoemaker. Shoemaker maintains about 150 head of Simmentals on his Buffalo Mills farm.

Part of his business in selling purebred embryos, about 10 percent of which are exported to South America for pure seedstock and commercial cow/calf operations.

He said that, recently, two bulls from his herd placed in the top five at the Penn State bull test. Several also topped the Cornell, N.Y. bull test, and a bull that topped six pounds per day of gain did well at the Ohio test.

Shoemaker uses an extension computer system to keep track of herd genetics. A board member of the Pennsylvania Simmental Association, Shoemaker has served as a two time-president of the state association and is a member of the National Simmental Association.

Shoemaker said the Farm Show is important because it provides a way to compare his stock to a large number of other animals.

The judges' decision during the competition "puts a stamp of approval on your own opinion," he said, about which animal is chosen supreme champion.

Supreme champion heifer of the beef show open competition was awarded to Workland and Cattle Company, Uniontown, for a 15-month old Angus senior heifer calf champion. The champion placed high at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) last October at the Farm Show Complex.

For Jim Work, Worland and Cattle Company, this is his 60th consecutive year of attendance at the Farm Show.

Helping to exhibit the supreme champion heifer was Keith Rooker, a Workland employee, who said that "taking care of the heifers and getting the potential out of them" contributes to a supreme champion. Workland travels to several regional and national shows in addition to Farm Show.

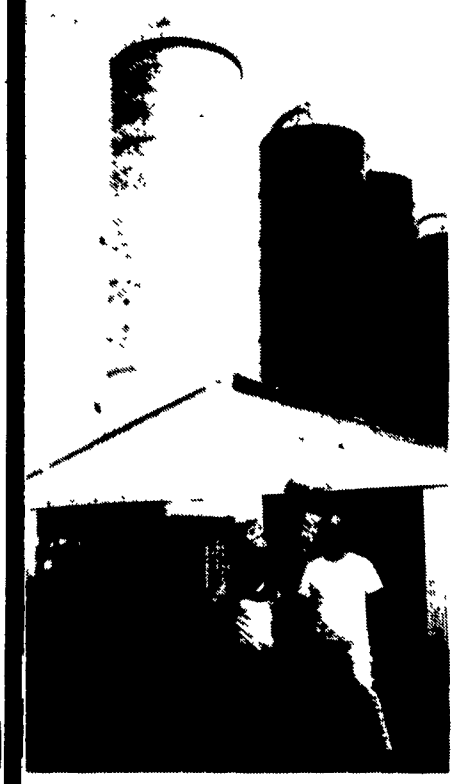
SEE US AT THE PA FARM SHOW - JAN. 6-11, 1996



It's not too early to begin planning for storing your valuable feeds for 1996! Quality forages and grains become more important as margins decrease in the dairy and livestock industries.

When you think of "quality" feeds, you need to consider "quality" storage. Farmers all over the East (from Maine to Florida, and West to the Mississippi River), are turning to the poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO to protect the quality of their feeds.

Listen to what these farmers from VA say about their switch to a poured concrete silo for their hi-moisture shelled corn storage: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture shelled corn ever."

Signed: Keith Wilson, Paul Wilson, Gerald Garber, Cave View Farms, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.

"THE BLIZZARD OF '93, THE SEVERE WINTER OF '94, and THE SNOWY FALL OF '95, all INCREASE YOUR APPRECIATION OF THE CONCRETE TOWER SILO"

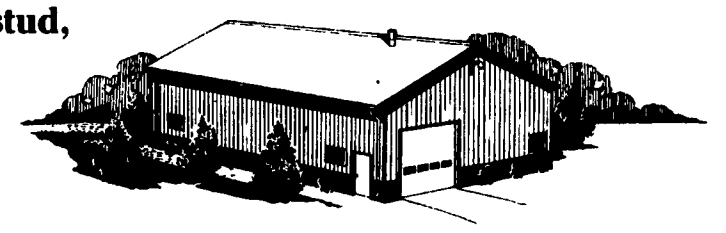
505 STEELSTOWN RD. - NEWVILLE, PA 17241

The Building you want.
The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

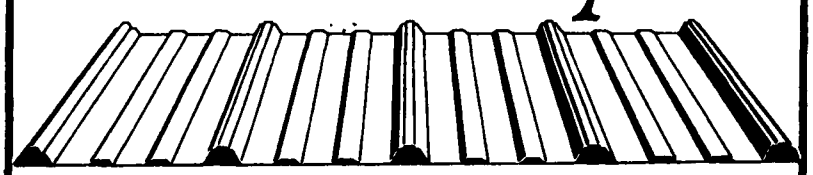
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE

WHEELING Channeldrain

ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.

1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

A 1st Class Team Together For 25 Years!

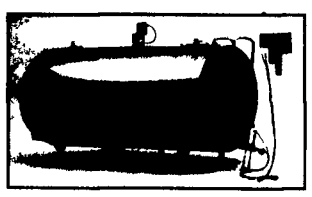
Milk's got more!

RUFUS BRUBAKER REFRIGERATION

And...

MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$41,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$58,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Contact your Mueller distributor for further comparisons.

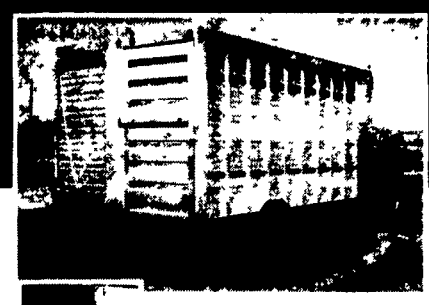
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

For Snook, Standability's Most Important Factor

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Some people say it's the rich river bottom soils that allow Ed Snook to take home the first-place ribbons in the Pennsylvania Corn Club's annual production contest. But according to the long-time corn grower and hog farmer, there are many factors that contribute to bumper corn crops.

"In the Five Acre Corn Club, I don't enter the same fields every year. I've had them in the Nippenose Valley on limestone ground and along the river. It's always pushed up to me that I have pig manure and river field, but we've had the Five Year Corn Club in seven or eight locations and we've won awards on all of them," he said.

In this year's contest, Snook placed first in the three-year average shelled grain class for the regular harvest size. His yield in 1992 was 191.8 bushels per acre. In 1993 he produced 201.6 bushels per acre and in 1994 he produced 194.1 bushels per acre for an average

Know Farm's 'Microenvironment,' Says Corn Grower President

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — "You have to know the microenvironment of every place you farm in order to be able to make an intelligent choice in seed corn selection," said Curt Rakestraw, newly elected president of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association, Inc.

During an interview early last month with Lancaster Farming, Rakestraw toured several of the 31 different farm sites he rents in the farm valley north of North White Deer Ridge. At one Penn State research test plot (one of several early to medium season plots statewide) on land leased from Joe Youman's Farm in Fairfield Township, Rakestraw spoke about some of the important factors growers should consider when picking a variety.

Rakestraw farms about 1,100 acres of crops (700 acres in corn, 150 acres in small grain, and 150 acres in hay) with his brother Dave. Curt said that a farmer must know the qualities of the soil and the environment as a whole.

"We have some clay and rock," he said. "They say this is where the glaciers did their most damage. The edge of the glacier was right here. So we get a little bit of everything around here."

Rakestraw said a lot of the land he rents to grow corn has a lot of different varieties of soil, ranging from a Hagerstown silt loam to shaley loam to red clay. At one farm near the Lycoming Mall, he said "we were told there were 17 different soil types in three of the strips," he said. "And I believe it. When you plow it, it just changes every hundred feet or so.

NAILE Exhibit Rises To Top At Farm Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — An Oxford March ewe lamb that placed 10th at the North Atlantic International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky. in November won champion of the sheep meat breeds competition at the Farm Show on Monday this week.

Blizzard conditions didn't stop the Farm Show, and the sheep show, despite a closing of the state roads, from continuing with the sheep judging events on Monday.

The champion of the meat breeds was exhibited by Mike Koehler, Schnecksville.

Koehler said this was the first time he has shown Oxfords at the Farm Show. The same ewe won reserve champion in the breed at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) in October last year held at the Farm Show Complex.

Winning a championship against many other breeds has its own challenges.

"Like always, it involves a lot of work in both management and genetics," said Koehler.

Factors such as preparing the ewe for competition work in a big way.

"Mike's a master fitter, one of the best in the country," said Suzie Leib, Mechanicsburg, whose family shows sheep at the Farm Show.

FEED THE COWS, NOT PARASITES

David R. Wolfgang, VMD
Penn State University

The renewed interest in grazing, especially intensive grazing, implies that animals will be on pastures at times when parasite transmission can occur. Several estimates report that as many as 90 percent of all cattle have some level of parasite infestation.

These same surveys place the annual cost of parasitism to the cattle industry at more than $200 million.

Parasitism may be in the form of protozoa, such as coccida or cryptosporida, as well as in the form of nematodes (commonly thought of as stomach, intestinal, or round worms). The goal of a parasite control system is not the elimination of the parasite but rather the development of a system that maximizes profitability and minimizes the negative effects on animal health.

Coccidia and cryptosporidia are small one-celled organisms called protozoa. These internal parasites commonly infect calves, although adult animals that do not have immunity or that are stressed (such as at calving time) may be clinically affected.

Coccida and cryptosporida inhibit the absorption of some of the nutrients and water. A mild to moderately severe diarrhea may develop. Many calves in a group can be affected and show signs such as weight loss and rough hair coat. Seldom will these organisms be pathogenic enough to kill an animal by themselves, although their debilitating effects may leave the animal susceptible to other infections. It is also important to note that Cryptosporidia may be infectious to humans. Careful attention to handwashing following handling of calves with diarrhea, especially by children, is important.

Following exposure and infection most animals will develop immunity and be protected from reinfection for most if not all of the rest of their life. Therefore, it is recommended that producers consult with their veterinarian to establish protocols to determine which animals are at risk and recommend treatment or prevention strategies.

Coccida may be treated with amprolim (Corid) or a variety of sulfonamide antibacterials. Currently there is no effective treatment for Cryptosporidia. One experimental drug shows some promise, but is not yet available. Preventive compounds that will help to limit infection by coccida are amprolium (Corid), decoquinate (Decox), lasocid (Bovatec), and monensin (Rumensin).

Animals become infected by fecal contamination of their feed or water. Therefore, control strategies for the protozoan parasites center on sanitation. Areas near waterers and feeders should be well drained and scraped frequently. Buckets, feed troughs, creep feeders, and waterers should be free of fecal contamination and cleaned frequently.

Animals should be in groups that are appropriate for their size and in as small a number as is feasible to avoid overcrowding. The organisms tend to be resistant to many forms of disinfectants, but their use may reduce the numbers of organisms. Good old-fashioned practices such as drying, exposing feeders, hutches, and etc. to the sunlight will also greatly reduce the organisms presence in the environment.

The greatest difficulty in reducing if not eliminating these parasites is due to their ability to persist in the environment. That old pasture the calves were in two years ago, or that old shed that hasn't housed calves for awhile, or that low spot in the pasture that was buried under two feet of snow could all potentially reinfect this year's crop of calves.

The most important members of the nematode parasite group are Ostertagia, Trichostrongylus, Haemochus, Cooperia, and Nemotadirus. Eggs from these stomach or intestinal parasites are passed in the manure onto the ground where they hatch under the proper conditions. Typically the moisture of the cow patty plus temperatures of 41-91°F are sufficient to hatch the egg to the larval 1 (L1) form. Lower temperatures and dryness tend to inhibit hatching, while higher temperatures are fatal to hatched larava.

Precipitation is usually necessary to move the larva from the manure to the forage and complete the development of the larva to the infective L3 stage. In our climate zone there is a buildup of L3 on the pastures during the late summer and early fall. Some larvae survive the extremes of winter, while most larvae are killed.

Once ingested the larva reaches maturity in approximately 21 days and females lay eggs for 30 to 60 days. Egg production varies, but it is not unusual for a single female to produce several thousand eggs per day. Animals less than 15 months old are generally the most severely affected. Older animals tend to have immunity which limits the infection and production effects.

Strategic plans are usually geared for pasture systems as little or no parasite transmission occurs in most confinement or feedlot systems. This does not eliminate the need to treat young animals as they enter such systems, if parasites are limiting their performance. However, in pasture systems the goal is to maximize economic performance, by minimizing the deleterious effects of the parasites that can be acquired while on pasture. The most effective strategy involves the use of appropriately timed treatments to prevent the build up of infective L3 larvae on the pasture.

Young stock are given a wormer three weeks after turn out and then this is repeated in approximately 3 to 4 weeks (or up to 8 weeks if ivermectin is used). Animals that were pastured the year before may harbor an arrested form of the parasite (L4) in their tissues. These animals should be treated with a compound that kills the L4 form. Currently ivermectin (Ivomec) and albendazole (Valbezan) have the best documented efficacy against the L4 form. Many other pharmaceuticals, including sustained release products such as morantel (Paratec), can be an effective part of the control strategy if directed against the adult parasite and nonarrested forms. Many compounds are not labelled for use in lactating cattle, or in cattle older than 15 months. Please contact your veterinarian to help select appropriate pharmaceuticals for your unique situation. The use of a fall treatment is somewhat controversial. However, if a fall treatment at the end of the grazing season is deemed necessary, a compound effective against the L4 form should be used.

Good pasture management can greatly reduce the parasite burden as well. Keeping the sward relatively short, avoiding overgrazing, moving the animals frequently and minimizing manure buildup will greatly reduce the number of infective larvae.

Take time now, prior to the grazing season, to consult with your veterinarian, nutritionist, county agent, or other ag professional to develop a plan to minimize the parasite burden in your animals. It is much better for the health of your animals and your wallet to prevent serious infection by these organisms, rather than rely on treatment after infection and disease have begun.

Farm Financial Management School Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Agriculture Committee of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce invites you to join them for the third Farm Financial Management School to be held on Thursday, Jan. 26, at the Southern Market Center.

The program is an intensive all-day seminar on financial and employee-related topics designed for owners of large, multi-enterprise farm operations. The goal is to provide in-depth training on strategic planning, analyzing and managing growth, employee incentive and benefit programs, and other related topics of interest to this important segment of the county's agricultural community.

The Agriculture Committee has recruited the services of two nationally-known instructors. The financial aspects of farm management will be presented by David M. Kohl, professor of agricultural economics and small business and entrepreneurship at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Kohl has conducted well over 300 such workshops and last year alone presented programs in 42 states and three foreign countries.

Equally well regarded as one of the nation's most experienced specialists in family farm management is Dr. Donald Jonovic. Jonovic has been working with farm owners and family companies since 1973 and has helped thousands of businesses throughout North America. He will discuss planning for agreement and growth, developing management commitment and competence, plus many more useful topics.

Participants in the school each received a detailed notebook of reference and study materials provided by the instructors for their use in further analyzing their own business situation.

The cost of the seminar is $125 per person and includes refereice materials, lunch, parking, and speaker fees. The deadline for registration is Jan. 17, 1996. For more information, contact Jim Shirk, agriculture services manager of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry, at (717) 397-3531.

Alfalfa Variety Ranks High In Feeding Value

LINCOLN, Neb.—NC+ recently released Jade II™, an alfalfa variety designed for growers looking for more milk per acre and improved feeding value.

Named after NC+'s best-selling fall dormancy 4 variety Jade, the new variety has yield performance similar to the original, said Gary Duncan, NC+ Hybrids president.

"Jade is still one of the strongest alfalfas on the market and a smart, economical choice for many growers," said Duncan. "But growers more focused on feeding value and milk per acre now have even a stronger alfalfa option in Jade II."

Like the original, Jade II also has a strong disease package including outstanding protection against bacterial wilt and phytophthora root rot. The new variety also has improved resistance to fusarium wilt and moderate resistance to anphanomyces.

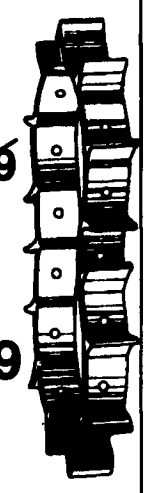
Reg. ~~$5.99~~
NOW $5.09



SERVICE SPECIAL

SEED METER MACHINE TESTING
Finger pickup seed meters can be run on a test stand and adjusted for maximum planting accuracy. This removes the variation between rows caused by manually adjusting units.
$9.50 per row unit
Note: Units should be reconditioned prior to putting on test stand. This is not included in this price.

1996 Master Farmers Named At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Even though the snow storm forced cancellation of the luncheon last Monday, the owners of four Pennsylvania farm operations and one Maryland farm operation were recoginzed as 1996 Master Farmers this year in conjunction with the 80th Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

The Master Farmer program, now in its 63rd year, recognizes farmers from Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia for high achievement in farming and community service. The program is sponsored by Pennsylvania Farmer magazine and Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The 1996 Master Farmers are:

— Oscar and Winnie Campbell, of Perry County.

— Barron, Robin, Richard and Randall Hetherington, of Schuylkill County.

— Glenn and Marion Slaybaugh and Scott and Debra Slaybaugh, of Adams County.

— Carl Shaffer, of Columbia County.

— Jean and Glenn Evans, of Frederick County, Maryland.

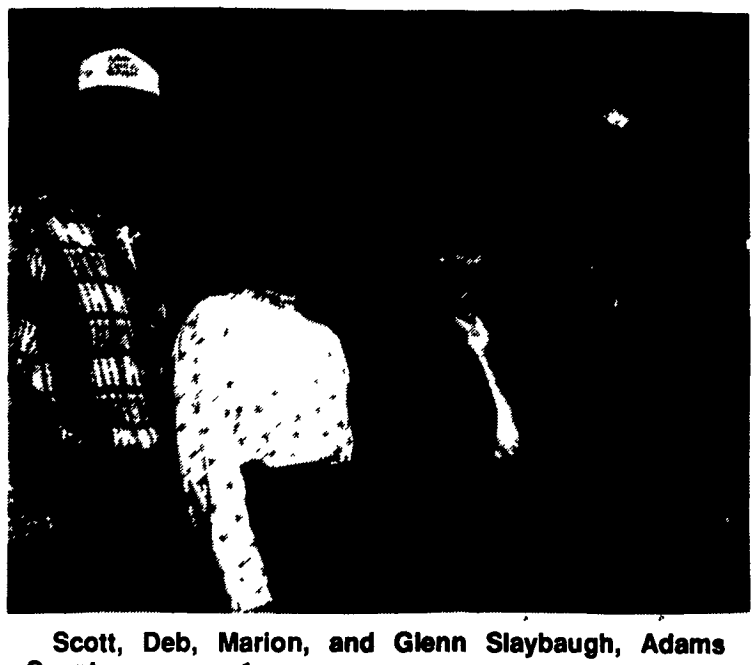
Oscar Campbell and his wife, Winnie, own and manage Buffalo-Bell Farm, a dairy operation with 51 cows and 31 heifers on 100 acres in Newport. They also raise corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa and other forage crops. Buffalo-Bell was named a Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction in 1987 and received the Conservation Farm Award in 1976 and 1990. The farm has one part-time employee.

Campbell uses no-till methods and has installed conservation devices such as diversion terraces, sod waterways, strip cropping and field tile drains. Campbell contracted the Soil Conservation Service to write conservation plans for the 245 acres he rents. He breeds his own cows and has had a closed herd since 1980. The couple uses a crop consultant, whose recommendations have reduced the farm's use of pesticides. They installed a new milking system and milkhouse waste system in 1994.

Campbell is director of the Perry County Holstein Club and the Perry County Farm Bureau. He also is a director of the Perry County Cooperative Extension Board and president of the Perry County Soil Conservation Board. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. Winnie Campbell is a past member of the Perry County Cooperative Extension Board.

Winnie and Oscar Campbell, Perry County.

Jean and Glenn Eaves, Sr., Frederick County, Md.



Scott, Deb, Marion, and Glenn Slaybaugh, Adams County.

Barron Hetherington, his wife, Robin, and his brothers Richard and Randall Hetherington co-own B & R Farms, a 140-acre vegetable and grain operation in Ringtown. The brothers, with the help of seven part-time employees, also farm 352 rented acres. Their crops include field corn, ornamental Indian corn, forages, soybeans, tomatoes, strawberries, peppers and cucumbers.

Barron Hetherington is in charge of strawberry and vegetable production. Yields for a variety of crops on B & R Farms have risen each year. For example, strawberry sales to pick-your-own customers increased from 3,000 pounds in 1981 to 32,000 pounds in 1994. An avid conservationist, Barron has installed cropland terraces, diversion terraces, sod waterways and tile drains. As a result, B & R Farms was named 1991 Cooperator of the Year by the Schuylkill County Conservation District. The partnership also is active in farmland preservation and is organizing a 4,500-acre agricultural security area with several neighbors.

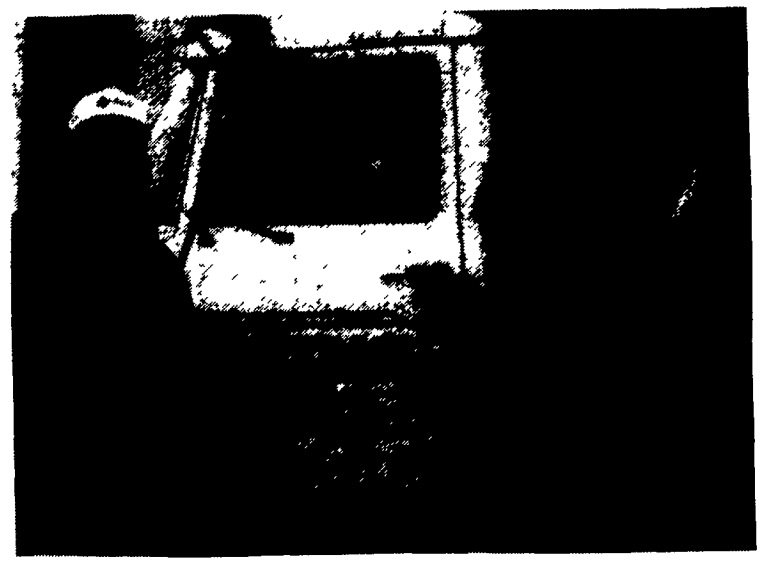
Richard Hetherington is employed full time off the farm, but contributes his financial acumen and expertise in equipment repair and design. He designed the farm's packing warehouse and grain storage operation.

Randall Hetherington is responsible for grain production, haymaking and hay marketing. He also runs the farm's vegetable packing operation, and has increased its direct sales to consumers to 25 percent of the farm's production.

Robin Hetherington, a native of New Castle, is responsible for labor management and sales of the pick-your-own strawberry farm. She designs advertising and sales promotions and developed the B & R Farms logo. She also acts as the farm's public relations agent and has succeeded in placing stories about the strawberry farm in several area newspapers. She also arranged for Barron and Randall to do television interviews commenting on farm issues. In addition, she operates the farm's greenhouse.

Glenn Slaybaugh, Jr. and his wife, Marion, and Scott Slaybaugh, and his wife, Debra, are partners in Sunny Hill Orchards II, a 240-acre fruit farm in Biglerville. They raise such crops as apples, peaches, sweet cherries, sour cherries, plums, pears, nectarines, apricots and raspberries.

Scott Slaybaugh, who is the farm manager, rents the farm from his father Glenn, who works part-time spraying crops, harvesting and pruning trees. Marion Slaybaugh assists with bookkeeping and procurement, as does Debra, who is also a registered nurse. The farm markets 80 percent of its apple crop to processors and sells the remainder of its crops in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Virginia and South Carolina.



Richard, Randy, Robin, and Boots Hetherington, Schuylkill County.

The Slaybaughs practice integrated pest management, which reduces pesticide applications, and have hired a spray consultant to further control pesticide use. Glenn Slaybaugh is on the executive board of the Adams County Fruit Growers and is a member of the Pennsylvania Horticulture Association and the Adams County Farmers Advisory Committee.

Scott Slaybaugh is a member of the North American Fruit Explorers, the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania and the Adams County Fruitgrowers Association.

Carl Shaffer owns a 300-acre grain and vegetable operation in Mifflinville. With the help of two full-time employees and one part-time worker, Shaffer also farms 700 rented acres, growing corn, wheat, snap beans and carrots. Shaffer began his career as a truck driver, hauling fertilizer and produce. When his father retired, he took over the family farm in the early '70s while maintaining his trucking business.

In addition to farming his own crops, Shaffer custom-harvests snap beans for several other farmers and hauls his and others' crops to the Hanover Foods processing plant in Centre Hall. He also rents grain storage to a local flour mill for additional income. To reduce his chemical fertilizer applications, Shaffer has contracted with Heinz Pet Products in Bloomsburg to haul and apply the plant's residual waste on his fields.

Shaffer is a member of the Columbia County Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and the Department of Environmental Protection Agricultural Advisory Board. He is also on the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania Foundation for Agricultural Awareness and the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Marketing Cooperative.

Oak Bluff Farms has been in a constant state of expansion since 1971, when Glenn Eaves Sr., wife Jean and their three boys moved onto their first purchased farm near Woodsboro, Md. Back then, the Frederick County farmer couple milked 200 cows.

Today, their dairy business is still centered around that original home place. But their family partnership now milks 2,600 cows in three parlors on two farms, and farms close to 3,500 acres.

The 1996 Master Farmers were selected from more than 20 applicants. Judges for the final round were Robert Sams, assistant to the dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences; Robert Bruch, coordinator of rural development services in the New Jersey Department of Agriculture; and Greg Davis, regional manager of Farm Credit Leasing, based in Baltimore, Md. For more information about this year's Master Farmers, see the January issue of Pennsylvania Farm magazine.

Carl Shaffer, Columbia County.
